"PLANTED" BOOZE IN FRITCH'S HOME

Homer Smalley, Alias Dick Black,
Accused of Causing Arrest of
Former Rushville Man

RELATION TO LOCAL TRIAL

Officials Here In Touch With Situation Which Is Said To Grow Out Of Fritch's Testimony

Another chapter has been written in the Blaine Fritch episode, according to an Indianapolis dispatch, in which Homer Smalley, age 24, known as Dick Black, it is stated has been arrested on a charge of planting booze in the Fritch home, 708 North Alabama, St., Indianapolis. Smalley has confessed to the officers, according to the report, and has implicated a third party, who hired him to plant the booze.

He is being held in jail at Indianapolis unable to give $5,000 bond. Fritch, who formerly lived in Rushville, was the prosecuting witness for the state in the case against Fred Clevenger, and the incident of planting the booze was brought up at the trial here last week.

At the trial, Fritch testified that he had seen Black and Clevenger together at one time in Indianapolis, but the defendant denied knowing anyone by that name in the city.

Black or Smalley is said to be an operative for a detective agency in Indianapolis, and following his arrest he is said to have given the officers a confession, telling them the name of the person who hired him.

The affair has been known here for some time, as a few days before the last trial against Clevenger Fritch was caught by the police, who had been tipped off that there was booze in his house. The officers are said to have found five quarts underneath the rear steps, and when the local officers were notified and explained the circumstances Fritch was not held.

Fritch told the local officers that one day recently Black came to his home and pretended to be the owner of rental property which need to be papered, and during their conversation he made an excuse to go to the bath room.

After he had left, Mrs. Fritch, his mother, went to the bath room to get some cough medicine, and according to the story related, she found four quart bottles of white mule.

The bottles were taken out in the back yard and destroyed, and later that night the place was raided by the police who are said to have uncovered five more quarts hidden under the rear steps.

Fritch suspected that Black had "planted" the booze, and filed an affidavit against him, and he was nabbed yesterday by the police.

Prosecutor Gates Ketchum was notified last night of the arrest of the detective, but the matter will be taken up in the courts there, because the transaction happened in Indianapolis. It was strongly in-

DAUGHERTY IS EXONERATED

House Judiciary Committee Votes
On Impeachment Charge Today

(By United Press)

Washington, Jan. 9.—The house judiciary committee today adopted a report exonerating Attorney General Daugherty from the impeachment charges filed by Representative Keller, Minn. At the same time the committee decided to leave to a decision on the floor of the house the question of whether Keller should be punished under the rules for his refusal to appear before the judiciary committee and give testimony.

Representative Ben Thomas, Democrat of Kentucky, opposed the committee action and declared he would make a minority report to the house advocating an impeachment trial for Daugherty.

Thomas said that while he did not believe any of the Keller charges had been substantiated a further and more complete investigation should be had in the matter.

HOW TO FIND JESUS, TOPIC

People Fail To Seek Him Earnestly
Evangelist McQueen Says

A large crowd attended the meeting at the Salvation Army church last night, to hear Evangelist McQueen on "How to Find Jesus."

In part he said: "The trouble with many people today, trying to find Jesus is not because He will not be found of them, but because they don't seek Him earnestly. The revival spirit is spreading and much interest is being shown. The object of this revival is the salvation of sinners, reclamation of backsliders, and sanctification of believers. In truly finding Jesus, the drunkard becomes a soberman, the thief an honest man, the impure woman becomes pure and unhappy homes are made happy."

Services are being held every afternoon and night at 2:30 and 7:30. The public is invited to these services.

FRIENDS OF LAW TO RESCUE

Soldier Bonus Bill is Also Introduced
in House and Senate—Other Important Measures

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—The fight for repeal of the primary election law—one of the storm centers in the Indiana legislature—was on today when two bills were introduced to abolish the primary system.

Senator William Penrod of Logansport, republican, presented the bill to the senate and Julius Schwing of Lawrenceburg, democrat, introduced it in the house.

Lines of those who opposed the primary and those who favored it were being tightly drawn. It was indicated there would be no possibility of rushing the repeal bill through the legislature before the end of the week as republican and democratic state leaders had planned.

Friends of the primary system were hurrying to its rescue. Among these were Ed Toner of Anderson, republican candidate for Governor in the primary in which McCray was

NEXT LITTLE THEATRE BILL SET FOR JAN. 29

Three One-Act Plays Will Be Presented Again Because Of Popularity Of First Offering

TWO BY FAMOUS PLAYWRIGHTS

The Little Theatre Society of Rushville will give its second bill at the Princess theatre Monday evening, January 29, it was announced today. The bill will consist of three one-act plays, as before.

The second offering of the society will consist of "Suppressed Desires," by Susan Glaspell; "Where The Cross is Made," by Eugene O'Neill, and "Tamar," by Lermontow.

The first bill of the society, which was given December 7, was so popular that the play committee was agreed that the same form of a program should be followed again.

"Suppressed Desires" is a comedy with only three characters, and is regarded as a Little Theatre classic because it has been presented by so many societies. Susan Glaspell, one of the authors is rated as the second best playwright in America, while Eugene O'Neill, the author of "The Hairy Ape" and "Anna Christie," is the foremost.

"Where The Cross is Made" is a tragedy and offers a fine vehicle it is said, for a Little Theatre group. "Tamar" is a ballet pantomime adapted from a poem by the Russian poet Lermontow.

NATIVE ARMENIAN WILL MAKE APPEAL

Gen. M. Azgapatian Will Open Campaign in Rush County for Near East Relief

SPEAKS SEVERAL LANGUAGES

Former Statesman Will Speak to Joint Session of Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs Wednesday

General Merzop Azgapatian, who will speak to a joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at the Social club Wednesday noon, in connection with the weekly luncheon of the two clubs, is an Armenian by birth, the scion of one of the best families in Constantinople—a soldier, diplomat and linguist.

General Azgapatian, will speak in Indiana in the interests of the Near East campaign which will be made throughout the United States next month. The appeal will be made through the churches in Rush county. Ministers of the Rushville churches will be special guests of the two clubs to hear General Azgapatian.

The general's father was the "Azgapat" or chief of the nation of the Protestant Christians of the Turkish empire and that is why he has the surname of Azgapatian—pronounced Az-ga-pet-yan. His full name is Merzop-Nevton Khan Azgapatian, but he is better known among Armenians as Nevton Khan, the latter being an hereditary title conferred on him by the Shah of Persia, equivalent to the European title of Count.

General Azgapatian is a graduate of Roberts College, an American institution on the Bosphorus and a graduate of Columbia University. He speaks Armenian, English, French, German, Persian, Turkish, Greek and Russian.

While studying in this country General Azgapatian became so devoted to the Armenian cause that he became unpopular with the Turkish court and could not return to his native land. He attained the rank of major general while serving with the army of the Shah in Persia and later represented that country at Washington, D. C. For two years during the world war the general with his wife, Lady Ann Azgapatian, and

REVIVAL OPENS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Exceptionally Large Crowd Gathers To Hear The Rev. E. Richard Edwards In First Sermon

SPECIAL MUSIC IS PROVIDED

An exceptionally large audience for Monday evening assembled at the Main Street Christian church to hear the initial sermon of the Rev. E. Richard Edwards. He measured up to all the expectations of what had been said about him.

The Rev. Edwards is of Welsh parentage and was born in New York City where he preached for several years before becoming an adopted Hoosier where he has labored for several years, having held pastorates at Bedford, Kokomo, Martinsville and is now entering on his eighth year at Logansport. Though of foreign parentage, he is a one hundred per cent American.

His theme last evening, "The Place and Power of Pentecost" in which he presented the fact that Pentecost was the mountain peak of God's revelation and power as manifest among men. Here the new kingdom was born, and the conditions of salvation in Christ were presented. Here the new born church received power to go forth to win the world to Christ.

Tonight the subject will be "The Supreme Summons." A large chorus choir was present to lead in the song service last night and will be each evening throughout the meeting. Mrs. Will McVay of Richmond will sing at the services this evening.

Classes In All Lines Of Work Suspended To Discuss How It Might Be Improved

THREE THINGS FUNDAMENTAL

Industry, Honesty And Economy Essential To Build Home, E. I. Miller Of Lafayette Says

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—The Indiana Farm Home the institution around which all the agricultural progress of the state really centers was the central theme before the annual farmer's short course at Purdue University today. Classes in all other lines of work were suspended during the afternoon while the farm men and women devoted their time to a discussion of the farm home and how it might be improved.

E. I. Miller, of near Lafayette, president of the Tippecanoe County Farmer's Federation, and Mrs. Lawrence J. Foster, wife of a prominent Montgomery stockman and farmer, were the principal speakers. Their talks with the discussion is expected to lead to a well formed program calling for improvement of the state's farm homes.

"There are no fixed rules for securing a home, but there are three fundamentals—industry, honesty and economy," said Mr. Miller in the course of his remarks. "I would have you to build a home filled with patience, kindness, meekness, and forgiveness. Such a home will radiate to the community and state, service, friendship, and good citizenship. The real home is its occupants or builders and in this sense, our

Finds Germany in Default of Coal Payments in 1922—British Vote Against Finding

(By United Press)

Berlin, Jan. 9.—French staff officers arrived at Duisburg today, according to the German government advises and troops are enroute.

Neuss notified the government that heavy artillery together with detachments of pioneers and engineers arrived there. At Dusseldorf the French are requisitioning automobiles, official reports say.

Advance guards of French troops under General DeGoutte has arrived at Kettwig, near Essen, according to a dispatch from the latter city.

Cities of Essen were surprised that the French did not enter during the night. Railroads and hotels were ready to receive them.

By WEBB MILLER

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Jan. 9.—The reparations commission, by a vote of three to one today found Germany voluntary in default of coal payments to France during 1922.

Sir John Bradburn, British representative voted against the finding.

This is a necessary technical action which was to precede French invasion of the Ruhr valley and occupation of Essen.

Marshal Foch's military plans waited upon action by the allies finding Germany in default.

The reparations commission notified the French government of the default, and it was semi-officially stated action will follow almost immediately, possibly tomorrow.

American observer Boyden made a statement to the commission before it took a vote. He refused to divulge its nature, but stated he made no reservations.

France, backed by Belgium and Italy, made speedy finish of the reparations commission's sitting today. Ten German experts had succeeded in delaying matters yesterday by haranguing all afternoon but they today were called speedily to account and the vote France asked of the commission was taken.

By the vote Germany is found to have willfully defaulted in amount of coal that should have been delivered to France during the past year. The Germans claimed they delivered so much they were forced to import other coal themselves.

The French clapped immediate censorship, applying to foreign as well as local newspaper correspondents upon forecasts of what France will do. But the press agrees that invasion is practically at hand. It is expected that the French will not wait until Thursday when Premier Poincare addresses the chamber of deputies, before acting. He may

MORRISTOWN HOME BURNS

Residence of Mrs. Daniel Ryan Destroyed by Fire

The residence owned and occupied by the widow of Daniel Ryan, was destroyed by fire in Morristown Monday morning at a loss estimated at $3,500. A defective flue is believed to have caused the fire. The residence was two stories, and was also occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Talbert. It contained ten rooms and was one of the most beautiful homes in Morristown.

People of Morristown assisted in carrying out household goods, and practically everything was saved from the burning structure. The fire was one of the greatest which has visited Morristown in years. Mrs. Ryan is well known in Rush county, her husband having served as pastor of Methodist churches at Carthage, Glenwood and other points.

County Corn Show

FARMERS STUDY BEST CORN TYPE

During November Seven of Eight
Ear to Row Plots in Hancock
County Were Harvested

BUILDS UP HIGH STRAIN

Part of Program Being Carried on
Throughout State to Encourage
Use of Better Seed

During November, seven of the eight ear to row plots in Hancock County were harvested. In each case, each ear was given the germination test and being of a desirable type, one-third was planted in a row to itself. Thus the plot was made up of from 30 to 50 rows each, planted by hand from an individual ear. The remnant ears in all cases were numbered and preserved for future use. The results show a marked variation in the yielding qualities of the several ears though they were growing on the same soil, climatic and fertility conditions. Each row was harvested and yield determined by actual weight. In practically all cases the yield of the lowest producing was doubled by the yield of the highest producing ear. Following is a brief summary of the results.

Farmer	Average yield per acre-bu	Difference 5 high and 5 low ears
J. Trittipio	88.3	21.7
E. Smith	82.0	55.6
T. Deupree	80.4	31.5
W. Parnell	78.5	38.7
W. Oldham	77.6	29.7
H. Binford	76.2	21.6
C. White	67.0	48.3

In each case the grower will choose the high yielding ears, shell them together and plant them in a plot by themselves, from which as much good seed as possible will be selected. This is believed to be the most practical means of building up a high production strain of corn.

This ear to row work is part of the program being carried on throughout Indiana to improve the corn crop by encouraging the use of better seed which is free from disease. It is a project of the Agricultural Extension Department of Purdue University and county agents, co-operating with farm bureaus, are staging the demonstrations as one means of bringing the point home to all the farmers. M. E. Cromer, Hancock County Agent, and the county farmers' organization conducted the demonstrations results of which have just been given.

PURDUE WILL OFFER 3 TRACTOR COURSES

Two Weeks Sessions, Will Be Given
For Farmers On Gas Engines At
State Agriculture School

FIRST COURSE ON JAN. 29

The Department of Farm Mechanics, School of Agriculture, Purdue University, announces a series of three tractor short courses in tractor and gas engines. Each of the courses are alike in instruction and time, two weeks. The courses start Jan. 29, Feb. 2 and Feb. 28.

These courses are the same as those which have been held in the past and are given especially for the farmers who use, or expect to use, gas engines, or tractors for their power requirements. They enable one to become more familiar with the different power plant constructions and characteristics.

Valve timing and adjustment, carburetion, ignition, lubrication cooling and fuel systems, belt and drawbar ratings, fuel tests and trouble hunting, form and basis of this practical work which includes lecture and laboratory periods with several representative types of tractors and gas engines used in this section of the country.

Those expecting to attend one of these schools should enroll as soon as possible, as twenty students only can be enrolled for each course. A fee of $2.00 will be charged to cover cost of fuel and other materials used. This is the students only expense above board, lodging and transportation.

FARMS NEED TRAINED MEN

Course Designed For Men and Women
Who Can Not Get Away For a 4 Year Course in Agriculture

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—The annual eight weeks' winter course in agriculture and home economics will be given again at Purdue University Jan. 15 to March 9, 1923. Five different lines of work, including general agriculture, animal husbandry, dairy manufacturing, dairy production, and home economics are included in the courses offered, the dairy work being divided into two courses for the first time.

"Agriculture is calling for trained men and women. Knowledge is power and farming is unsuccessful without it," reads an announcement sent out to prospective students. "The winter courses come at a time when there is a lull in farm work that enables young men and women to get away from the farm without seriously interfering with its operations. The cost is not great as compared with the benefits, since the increased earning power alone of anyone taking a winter course will be permanent. The courses are up-to-date and practical, the instructors competent, and facilities the same as offered to the four year students.

The courses are designed especially for men and women who cannot get away for the four year course but want additional education along agricultural lines.

Last year, five states were represented in the winter course and a steadily growing enrollment indicate a number more from outside the state will be here. Some of the most successful farmers in Indiana have taken the eight weeks' course and now come back every year for the farmers' week, to keep in touch with the progress made in all lines of agriculture.

A large number will come to the university for farmers' week Jan. 8 to 12 and then stay over for the eight weeks' course, which begins the following Monday.

WINTER RATIONS FOR COWS GIVEN

400 Lbs. Ground Corn, 200 Lbs.
Ground Oats, 100 Lbs. Cotton Seed
Meal, a Ration Recommended

INTERESTING DATA GIVEN

Legume Hay in Ration Decreases
Feed Cost, Increases Returns on
Home Grown Grains

By E. A. GANNON
(Dairy Dept. Purdue University)

The question of what feeds to select and how to feed the herd under various conditions is the most important question any dairyman has to answer at this season of the year. The two rations below are recommended and will produce economical results under Indiana conditions.

When legume hay and silage are available feed a grain mixture as follows:

First Ration

400 pounds ground corn.
200 pounds ground oats or bran.
100 pounds cotton seed meal or oil meal.

When Legume hay is not available and silage is, feed the following grain mixture:

Second Ration

100 pounds ground corn.
100 pounds ground oats or bran.
100 pounds cotton seed meal or oil meal.

Feed 1 pound of either of the above grain mixtures for every 3 pounds of Guernsey or Jersey milk and for every 4 pounds of Ayrshire or Holstein milk produced per day.

A comparison of the two rations reveals some interesting data on marketing home grown grain and on cost of producing 1 pound of butterfat. A 1,000 pound cow producing 20 pounds of 5% milk requires 10 pounds of a good legume hay, 30 pounds silage, 7 pounds of the first grain mixture. The cost of this ration, at the present prices of grain on the market, is $7.4c.

Twenty pounds of 5% milk produces 1 pound of butterfat as a feed cost of 27.4c. The first grain mixture contains four parts by weight of corn, the home grown grain. The four pounds of corn cost 6.4c and when fed in a balanced ration returns 11.6c when the product is sold as butterfat on the market at 50c per pound. One bushel of corn marketed by feeding to a dairy cow in a balanced ration and sold as butterfat at 50c a pound returns 1.62c per bushel. The market price of this corn at present time is 90c per bushel when sold as ground corn.

The market price of ground corn was quoted at $32.00 per ton, when fed in a balanced ration to cows producing as described, this same corn will sell for $57.85 per ton.

When the second ration is fed to the same cow the grain mixture must supply more protein than the first grain mixture, due to the lack of a legume hay in the second ration. A ration consisting of 12 pounds of timothy hay, 30 pounds silage and 8 pounds of the second grain mixture will supply the requirements of the cow. This ration cost 30.6c per day or a feed cost of 30.7c to produce 1 pound butterfat. In this ration only 1/3 of the grain mixture is home grown, while in the first ration 4/7 of the grain mixture is home grown. The 2.6 pounds corn at the same value as corn in the other ration is returning 6.9c or selling corn at the rate of $1.45 per bushel when fed in this ration and butterfat selling at 50c per pound. One ton of ground corn fed in this ration sells for $51.77 per ton.

Legume hay in the ration decreases the feed cost, increases the returns on home grown grains, enables the dairyman to feed more home grown grain at greater returns per bushel or ton than when sold on the market as corn and saves concentrates.

Comparing the cost of production of the two rations, the first ration costs 27.4c while the second ration cost 30.7c or stating it another way the cost to produce 1 pound butterfat with the first ration is 27.4c per pound and with the second ration the cost of production is 30.7c per pound, a difference of 3.3c per pound of butterfat in favor of the first ration.

The first ration returns $1.62 per bushel for the corn fed while the second ration returns $1.45 a difference of 17c per bushel which is a big item in marketing grain. The cost of one ton of the first ration is $32.92 while the cost per ton of the second ration is $36.33. One pound of corn returns 2.9c in the first ration and 2.6c in the second ration.

Those feeding legumes have the advantage of feeding more of their home grown grains and the benefits from the increased returns when compared with the dairymen producing milk with no legume hay in the ration. The former are able to market more of their home grown grains at a higher price than the latter. The first ration contains 3/7 or 42% commercial feed and if oats are fed in place of bran then only 14% is a commercial feed. In the second ration 66% by weight are commercial feeds, when oats replace bran then 33% of the ration is a commercial feed.

THE ONLY FREEDOM: Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John 8: 32.

Memorial Day Observance

Biennially, with the meeting of each Indiana general assembly, comes the movement to prevent the desecration of Memorial Day by commercialized games and sports. No amount of agitation by patriotic societies and citizens has ever been successful in causing to be enacted a law that would prevent the observance of the day for purposes other than those for which it was created, but the movement nevertheless grows in strength each year and eventually public sentiment will reach such a point that desecration of the day will be made illegal.

Memorial Day is not observed as it should be simply because the people of Indiana do not will that it shall be. If the sentiment of the people were such that they would frown on events like the Speedway races, enforcement of a law to prevent commercialized sports on this holiday would be a comparatively easy task. But the sentiment is lacking. Instead of remembering the heroic dead in some fitting way, the vast majority of the people of the state

With the general idea in view of bringing folks to their senses, the General Memorial association has been formed at Indianapolis, with the motto, "To perpetuate the observance of Memorial Day and to inculcate patriotism and love of country."

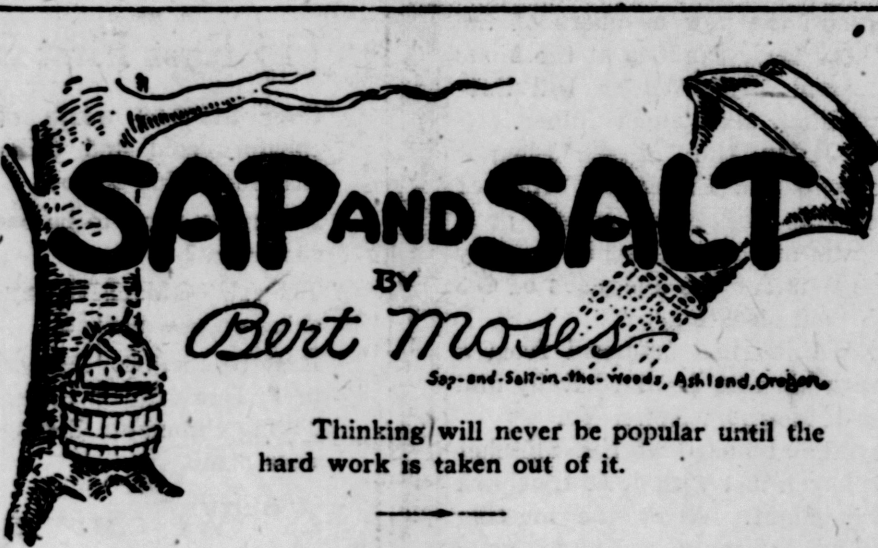

An appeal for support of a bill to carry out the purposes of the association has been issued and is signed by A. J. Ball, assistant adjutant general of the G. A. R.; James Robbins, Anderson post of the G. A. R., Indianapolis; James W. Fesler, Spanish-American war veteran; J. P. Ragsdale, past commander of Bruce Robinson post, American Legion; Newton J. McGuire, secretary general of the Memorial Association, Indianapolis; Edna E. Pauley, president of the Indiana Federated Patriotic societies; and E. S. Shumaker, national patriotic instructor of the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A.

"The last remaining hero of the civil war will soon be gone," says the appeal from the association "Over one hundred thousand of them now sleep in our state in the soil which they dedicated to freedom. And thousands more of our brave lads of the Spanish-American and World Wars also slumber in the silent cities of the dead in Indiana. We owe it to their memories, we owe it to their surviving comrades, and we owe it to the present and rising generations, to rid Memorial Day of commercialized games and sports, and to keep it sacred as a day when a grateful people will pay loving tribute to our country's illustrious defenders, and show that our Nation is still patriotic and not ungrateful."

"The tendency to desecrate this day through commercialized games and sports has become appalling. If persisted in it will eventually deprive our country of that fine fiber of manhood without which a Nation cannot permanently endure. A bill to rescue Memorial Day from further desecration by commercialized games and sports has been prepared, has the endorsement of the survivors of the Civil, Spanish-American, and World War Veterans, and will be at once introduced into the Legislature. We, therefore, make this appeal to the general public, asking their co-operation in securing the passage of this bill, and appeal to all lovers of our country to let their state senators and representatives know that they desire the passage of this bill."

GARFIELD HAS A SCRAPPY QUINTET

WAS SURPRISE LAST YEAR

Although New Team This Year, it Has The Fighting Spirit Which Won Them Merit Last Year

By GUY A. BOWSHER
(Written for United Press)

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 9.—Will the Garfield high school basketball five create as much surprise in the 1923 state championship as it did last year? The Terre Haute basketball team which went unknown to the state finals and came near upsetting the strong Franklin team proved to be one of the hardest working, fighting teams in the tournament.

The team this year is without practically every man that played in the tournament. Although Garfield has lost there mainstays, Coach "Red" Hanna, has probably built a team this year that will go just as far as the team of 1922.

Even at this early date of the basketball season the purple and white quintet has played like a team in mid-season form. It has won in fine fashion all the games it has played.

The loss of "Babe" Wheeler, all state center, was keenly felt by the Garfield team, but with Armour, captain-elect of 1923, Coach Hanna has probably developed a player who will even be better than Wheeler. Torr, the strong guard is also lost by graduation; Gault, however, has proven to be a hard working individual and can shift from running guard to back position with ease. The remainder of the Garfield team is composed of "Art" Reinking, whirlwind forward, who succeeded in scoring from the side time and again last year when rushed in as a substitute; "Bill" Everson who has been able to play a consistent game at either running or back guard; and "Tubby" Kirehner, who is tall of stature, which gives him great advantages in the center position.

Vincennes, one of the strongest contenders in the state, is scheduled on the Garfield chart, and this game should be one grand preamble to those following the game.

While the Garfield team has not a long string of games won, they have the reputation of being one of the hardest working fighting teams in the state. It is also just as strong as it was last year when critics said it would have won the tournament if it had had the practice.

Fans Will Watch New Managers

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, Jan. 9.—Three new managers with widely varying chances for success, will turn clubs into 1923 pennant races.

For Arthur Fletcher and Donie Bush it will be a chance to make a name; for Frank Chance it will be a case of living up to a name.

Donie Bush, of the three, is the only one to be congratulated.

Success means failure in Philadelphia. If you win with Baker's National League Club, you lose. If you get a pennant for Baker like Pat Moran, you get the gate from Baker. Such a proposition and even worse, because he has only the material to fail with is what Arthur Fletcher is up against.

The Phils are a tail end club and a poor one at that. They were not a cellar holder last year, because the Boston Braves had the worst string of luck in years and forced the Phils into seventh place.

Liberal spending and patient building are the only hopes for the Phils. Art Fletcher is a smart ball player and in three or four years with help from Baker he might build up a team.

Fletcher, however, has a one year contract. That tells the whole story. Hugo Bezdek turned down a $20,000 offer to manage the Pirates and the fans said: "Wise old boy."

Fletcher accepted (not for $20,000) and the verdict was: "Poor old Art."

Washington had nearly everything a fine ball club needed last season but a fighting heart. Looking for some manager to improve the club, Clarke Griffith picked a fighter—little Bush.

Clyde Milan and McBride were fine fellows, but they were quiet and easy going and they speared that atmosphere on the bench. Roger Peckinpaugh was considered as a helmsman, but he too lacked the aggressiveness of a Gleason Cobb, McGraw or Speaker.

For a combination of brains, experience and spirit, Bush was picked and he seems an ideal selection.

Many critics this time last year thought that the Senators would be two, three or four in the 1922 race, but they failed simply because they did not get up and go after 'em.

Bush has practically the same material to handle with one year added on them. One year may or may not mean a lot with Walter Johnson, but it should not cause the other members of the team to go back much.

The Senators are a fast team, they have good pitchers and if Bush can get them to bear down and rear up, he ought to be a winner.

Frank Crance, the "Peerless Leader" of the old Cubs, says he'll be satisfied if he gets the Boston Red Sox in the first division in four years.

Everyone else ought to be satisfied, too.

Chance has only a year's contract, but he's satisfied that he'll make enough improvement in one year to get another one.

He hasn't a thing to work with at Boston—and, strange to say, he maintains that is what appealed to him.

"When the Cubs were in their glory, they used to say that anybody could manage that team, that it managed itself and I was just the foreman," he said recently. "Well, if I do anything with the Red Sox, they can't say I worked with a handpicked team."

As long as Harry Frazee works for the cash only, the Red Sox will never have a picked team, but they will always have a hand-plucked team.

Hittin' 'Em and Missin' 'Em

NO APOLOGIES RIGHT NOW

Hittin' 'em makes his bow today. He will appear from day to day, depending upon whether this column is read and supported. Fans are asked to help out, and only in this way can it be made of general interest. Sometimes Hittin' 'em will criticize, and sometimes he will throw some bouquets, but at all times the editor of this column will not be "libel" for damages, or for rotten eggs.

WHITELAND WAS THE GOAT

Last Friday night, the Columbus Bull Dogs, after losing four straight games played Whiteland overwhelming them 62 to 7. Headline in Columbus paper, "Whiteland Feels Wrath of Defeat—Stung Bull Dogs."

It Might Have Been Worse

The same account says that the last half was cut short five minutes because Whiteland wanted to catch a car.

Here Is a Safe Bet

Hittin' 'em hopes for the best. May Columbus lose their next game. Rushville lost to them early in the season at Columbus, but Friday night when the Bull Dogs come here, he will almost gamble that the score won't be 62 to 7.

Even Connersville Loses Now and Then

Hamilton, O., high school net tossers didn't have much trouble in trouncing them, 31 to 20, but it wasn't Connersville's first loss this year.

GINGS LOST ONE TOO

Bentonville high school defeated Gings Hi Friday night 34 to 19. Bentonville has won six out of seven games played this season. Two Walkers starred for Bentonville, while G. Joyce led the scoring for the losers with 13 points.

Lot of people didn't even know Gings had a team.

No team from Moscow would be complete, unless there was a Tillison, or Gosnell playing on it.

Wonder what Carthage is doing this year without Lackey Black?

John Geraghty, mentor of the Webb high school, has produced a real basket shot in Talbert, captain and forward. In six games played this season, he has caged 33 field goals. Eat 'em up Talbert, old boy. Sorry you don't live here.

Greensburg lost another branch off their tree in the court house tower, when Tipton came down and grabbed off a 31 to 11 victory.

Richmond is still wondering why they only defeated Connersville 27 to 25. It gives them something to worry about, because Connersville won the sectional honors from them last year.

Shelbyville had something to crow about at last. They defeated Franklin for the first time in years. The celebration which followed the game, even excelled the big time when the armistice was signed. A bonfire was built in the public square and people living in Franklin, 18 miles away, heard the commotion, and knew what had happened. Even the firemen, who answered three false alarms, enjoyed the affair.

Newcastle had a close call again, when they nosed out Cambridge City 25 to 23. Newcastle likes 'em real close.

When the Crowd Drops

Isn't it a funny thing, that when a team is winning games, the gymnasium is always packed, but when the team begins to hit stiff teams, and drops a game now and then, the crowd gets smaller. Human nature is peculiar. Everyone wants to win. This time last year Rushville had $1500 in the treasury, but today, it is whispered around that there isn't enough money left to buy passage for the high school band on any future trip.

AMUSEMENTS

Big Week At The Princess

This is a big week at the Princess. Following closely on the two-day appearance of Joy Marshall and her band, together with Jack Holt in "While Satan Sleeps," comes the announcement of "The Old Homestead," a first line picture that is billed for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Miss Marshall and her musicians pleased large crowds at the Princess Monday and they were to make their last appearance this afternoon and tonight.

The phrase "all star" has been much abused, but the cast of "The Old Homestead" may be truthfully said to be of that calibre. Theodore Roberts, George Fawcett, T. Roy Barnes, Fritz Ridgway, Harrison Ford, Kathleen O'Connor, James Mason, Ethel Wales and others make up a list that is hard to surpass.

This paramount picture is based on Denham Thompson's famous play in which that celebrated actor appeared for thirty-two years, but is far more extensive in character and presents a great drama with plenty of comedy and a smashing climax.

The story is familiar — how the son of Uncle Josh is falsely accused of theft and goes away to meet with stirring adventure and finally to be restored to his home and sweetheart. But there is far more than that to the story. There is adventure, love, human character in abundance, humor that is rich and spontaneous and pathos that is deep and convincing. Tears and laughter abound.

James Cruze directed with discretion and sympathy, this great story which was adapted by Perley Poore Sheehan and Frank E. Woods, scenarized by Julien Josephson and supervised by Walter Woods.

Miss Daisy Simms, Who Died in Mattoon, Ill., Gained Prominence in Y. W. C. A. Work

FRIENDS WERE AT BEDSIDE

Members of National Board Summoned When Condition Became Critical—History of Her Career

That Miss Daisy Simms, former Rushville girl who died in Mattoon, Ill., last Saturday afternoon, was a national and international figure in Y. W. C. A. work, is revealed by an account of her death in a Mattoon newspaper which was received here today.

Miss Simms was apparently in good health when she arrived in Mattoon Christmas eve to spend the holidays. Within a few days she complained of feeling ill and a week ago last Saturday her condition became so serious that a physician was called. He recommended an immediate operation, discovering that Miss Simms was suffering from a serious mastoid trouble. The operation was performed Sunday, and for a short time it appeared as though she would recover. However, her condition changed for the worse Tuesday night, and steadily grew worse until Thursday afternoon, at which time all hopes of her recovery were abandoned. At that time, Miss Simms lapsed into unconsciousness, in which condition she remained until death except for brief partially lucid intervals.

Concerning her life and work the Mattoon paper says:

Miss Simms was born in Rushville, Ind., on April 17, 1873. She attended high school at Rushville, and on graduating entered DePauw University, Greencastle, Ind., from which she was graduated with a B. A. degree. After her graduation, she went to Chicago, where she first began her work with the Young Women's Christian Association. When only a young girl, she became a member of the Methodist Church, and retained her affiliations with that denomination throughout her life.

Miss Simms was widely known in connection with her work with the Young Women's Christian Association. Her reputation in this work not only extended throughout this country, but also in England and France, as well as wherever the work of the Y. W. C. A. extended. For more than twenty-seven years she had been actively engaged in this work, entering it in 1896.

During that time she had served in many capacities. After becoming familiar with the work of the organization, she became general secretary at Binghamton, N. Y. Several years later she was assigned similar duties at Portland, Me., the latter appointment being one of great responsibility.

From general secretary work, Miss Simms was graduated into work of a larger scope and carrying a corresponding increase in duties. She served as state secretary of the Y. W. C. A. work in Michigan; her work attracting considerable attention.

At the opening of the year of 1905, so great had Miss Simms' reputation as a worker in the organization became that she was offered the position of national industrial secretary, and she had been a member of the national board since that time.

In 1910 Miss Simms was appointed a delegate to the international association convention held in Berlin, Germany, and at that convention she offered ideals and standards for consideration that were adopted and made a part of the mission of the organization.

In the fall of 1919 she was sent to Europe as a member of the Young Women's Christian Association's industrial committee and remained there three months, investigating industrial conditions among women of France and England. At that time her health was none too good, but throughout her stay she was tireless in doing the work assigned her, and she won the whole-hearted co-operation of the workers of those countries.

Three members of the national board, including Miss Mabel Cratty, general secretary of the national board, have been in Mattoon since the serious illness of Miss Simms was announced. Miss Cratty is accompanied by Miss Imogene E. Ireland of the national industrial board, and Miss Louise Holmquist, the latter head of the student department of the national board. Miss Cratty and Miss Simms have been associated together in the work of the organization for more than seventeen years, during which time they had been roommates.

NATIVE ARMENIAN WILL MAKE APPEAL

Thousands of other Armenians fought with the Russian forces but were compelled to flee to the United States when Bolshevism got the upper hand. They were about to join the British at Bagdad when Russia collapsed. The general and his wife have been ardent workers in Red Cross and Liberty Loan drives.

General Azgapatian is said to be an eloquent and forceful speaker with an unusual command of fluent English. He says that the people of Armenia are entitled to be more fully informed regarding the Near East; that they have a right to know whether the Armenians are or are not, worthy of the generous contributions that are being sent them through the Near East Relief. Are they educated and industrious? Does their past and present history promise anything good for the future? or are they illiterate semi-barbarians like the cruel and fanatical Turks? Answering these questions the general also graphically tells the story of the heroic and glorious service of a quarter of a million Armenian recruits and volunteers under the various flags of the Allies.

timated that the alleged third party whose name was withheld, would also be arrested on a charge of being an accessory before the fact.

Fritch also was arrested on a larceny charge filed from Connersville, but officers are conducting an investigation in an effort to ascertain whether the charge is based on facts or whether it is false. The prosecuting witness in that case gave her name as Mae Stevens and she charged that Fritch and Frank Rogers of this city jointly with the theft of a diamond ring.

When the warrant was received here, no action was taken on it, and an investigation was begun in Connersville, it is stated.

nominated, and Albert J. Beveridge, author and former senator.

The soldier bonus bill, drafted by the veterans of the foreign wars, was presented in the house of representatives by Remy Bierly of Elizabeth, a democrat, and Ezra Graham of Warsaw, a republican.

The bill would give soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses, $10 for each month they served in the world war, not to exceed $250. The bill provides a tax levy to be stretched out over a period of three years, the amount to be determined by the state tax board with payment to beneficiaries to be extended over the same period. Immediate relatives of the deceased soldiers are mentioned as beneficiaries.

Other important measures introduced in the senate included:

Limiting the bond indebtedness of municipal corporations to one per cent of the valuation of the taxable property. The limit is now two per cent.

Amendment to the constitution providing that the majority of votes cast in a referendum is sufficient to enact a constitutional amendment.

Prevent sports on Memorial Day which would prohibit the 500-mile automobile sweepstakes here.

Make bootlegging and manufacturing of liquor a felony instead of a misdemeanor with punishment by imprisonment for one to five years and a maximum fine of $1,000.

The primary repeal measure drafted by Senator Will Penrod of Logansport, bore the stamp of the donkey and the elephant. After republican state leaders had approved the measure, they went into conference with Democratic State Chairman Walter Chambers and brought out the measure with the oke.

It was prepared to introduction in the senate by Penrod and in the house by Thurman Gottchalk minority leader, today with a strong partisan demand that it be pushed through both houses and onto Governor McCray's desk before the end of the week. McCray stand of opposition to the primary has been known ever since he entered public life and there is no question as to his signing it.

The bill provides that all state officers including Governor and United States senator shall be nominated in convention and that the presidential preference primary shall be abolished. The nomination of local officers by primary would be optional.

It was revealed that the election committees in both senate and house were comprised of men opposed to the primary systems picked before the legislature convened.

Despite this however, there was certain to be strong opposition to the bill. Many of the lawmakers had been instructed by the folks back home to fight for retention of the primary system. Other had an aversion to taking the direct nominating vote away from the people and restoring it to the old convention plan.

WOMAN AND HER LOVER PAY MURDER PENALTY

Mrs. Percy Thompson and Frederick Bywaters, Found Jointly Guilty For Crime, are Hanged

ALL CLEMENCY APPEALS FAIL

(By United Press)

London, Jan. 9—Mrs. Percy Thompson, was hanged at 9 o'clock this morning at Holloway jail for murder of her husband October 4. At the same time, in Pentonville Prison, Frederick Edward Bywaters, her lover, found jointly guilty of the crime, was hanged.

Hundreds gathered in chilling rain outside the prisons awaiting the single solemn clang of the death bell that announced the executions.

One woman bore a placard: "Murder cannot be abolished by murder."

Mrs. Thompson who made vain appeals for clemency to the last, was the first woman executed in England in 15 years.

Only officials were permitted to witness the hangings. High board fences had been erected about the scaffolds at the north of London jails and the public saw nothing of the executions nor of the prisoners as they were taken from their cells.

Official notices of the executions were posted on the gates, that at Pentonville saying that Bywaters had been executed, being put up at 9:25 a. m., Mrs. Thompson's notice at 9:33.

The curious crowds outside drifted away without demonstration.

Mrs. Thompson and Bywaters were found guilty after one of the most dramatic murder trials in English court history of conspiring against the former's husband and effecting his death by stabbing on October 4. Bywaters admitted the stabbing, claiming self-defense. The couple said they had planned to elope together later on and love letters passed between them were produced in which they discussed ways and means of poisoning Percy Thompson.

The prosecution held and the jury found that Mrs. Thompson incited Bywaters to stab her husband, but both the youth and the woman protested violently this was not so.

To Make Drunken Drivers Liable to Prison Terms

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9—Drunken automobile drivers would be liable to a prison sentence of one year and a fine of $50 under a bill before the legislature sponsored by Senator English of Indianapolis. The measure would make the penalty one to five years imprisonment for second offense and would make possible $500 fine and a two year sentence if a driver of an automobile runs away after an accident and is apprehended.

Breach Of Treaty, Says Cuno

Berlin, Jan. 9.—France's proposed seizure of Essen would constitute "a breach of the treaty," as an act of force against a defenseless people, declared Chancellor Cuno today in an interview with American correspondents. He condemned France's course and simultaneously renewed Germany's offer of a peace pact.

The chancellor emphasized Germany's calm view of France's movements adding "we shall forever bow to force, and we cannot forever yield to threats and thus go into the abyss. The allies in Paris did not desire to hear our proposals and could not agree to their own. The solution has again been postponed. Certain French circles apparently really believe that reparations can be obtained through force."

"I said at Hamburg that every compulsory measure signified death to economic reparations. I repeat this today most seriously and emphatically. Just so strongly as we were and ready to pay the limit of our economic strength, just so strongly are we unwilling to bow to compulsion. We have proved our willingness to pay voluntarily. The German people, if necessary, will walk the road of suffering, but they will not deal under pressure and threats."

"We cannot meet force with force, but in the complete agreement of the German people and in their fullest resolution we can do this: show the world in its true light the economic unreasonableness and illegality of the French procedure."

"But force remains force. France is attempting to garb her action with the appearance of right by taking sanctions, pawns which claim the support of the Versailles treaty, but this treaty, no matter how terrible it is otherwise does not permit France, according to her whims, to infringe on German sovereignty, or invade German territory."

"If France now intends to proceed further on her own responsibility; if she want confine herself to limitations but stretches her hand farther across the Rhineland that means a breach of the treaty and an act of force against a defenseless nation."

Cuno is known to be bitterly disappointed at the rejection of the anti-war pact, which he regarded as "democracy carried to its loftiest conception" through the application of the plebiscite regarding war.

ON FARMERS' WEEK CARD HOW TO FEED LAYERS IS

What and how much should laying hens get to eat is part of the lecture on "Feeding Laying Hens" that will be discussed by Professor A. G. Phillips at the Purdue University Farmers' Short Course, January 11, 1923.

Too many pullets get too little rather than too much feed during the winter months. Where trap-nests have been available and individual hens weighed every two weeks, the Purdue Experiment Station has found that pullets increasing in weight have kept up a good winter egg production, but where they have lost weight, egg production ceased, followed by a molt.

"Heavy consumption of feed is necessary to maintain weight and a large amount of grain must be eaten along with the proper mash mixture. The pullets in winter should be made to consume all the grain they want without spoiling the appetite, even to the extent of using artificial lights at 4 o'clock in the morning. Corn is a splendid grain, but if unpalatable, cracked corn may be used in its place."

Durkin told police that Florida trip was marred by frequent stops to quell quarrels between his three companions.

"I brought 'em back. I'm glad I did. The women are glad I did and the husbands ought to be glad I did," Durkin told police.

Suspicion Again Falls on Dorothy

CHAPTER IX

So! our dreadful secret was not confined to ourselves as we had supposed, but was shared, or at least suspected, by our host.

Thankful that it was I, rather than Sinclair, who was called upon to meet and sustain this shock, I answered with calmness, I could:

"Yes; Sinclair mentioned the matter to me. Indeed, if you have any curiosity on the subject, I think I can enlighten you as fully as he can."

Mr. Armstrong drew me into his private room.

"I find myself in a very uncomfortable position," he began. "A strange and quite unaccountable change has shown itself in the appearance of Mrs. Lansing's body during the last few hours; a change which baffles the physicians and raises in their minds very unfortunate conjectures. What I want to know is whether Mr. Sinclair still has in his possession the box which is said to hold a vial of deadly poison, or whether it has passed into any other hand since he showed it to certain ladies in the library."

In Sinclair's interests, if not in my own, I resolved to be as true to our host as our positions demanded, yet, at the same time, to save Gilbertine as much as possible from premature if not final suspicion.

I therefore replied: "That is a question I can answer as well as Sinclair. While he was showing this toy, Mrs. Armstrong came into the room and proposed to stroll, which drew all of the ladies from the room and called for his attendance as well. With no thought of the danger involved, he placed the trinket on a high shelf in the cabinet, and went out with the rest. When he came back for it, it was gone."

The usually ruddy aspect of my host's face deepened.

"This is dreadful," was his comment, "entailing I do not know what unfortunate consequences upon this household and on the unhappy girl."

"Girl?" I repeated.

He turned upon me with great gravity. "Mr. Worthington, I am sorry to have to admit it, but something strange, something not easily explainable, took place in this house last night. You know there is a detective in the house. The presents are valuable and I thought best to have a man here to look after them."

I nodded.

"That man tells me," continued Mr. Armstrong, "that just a few minutes previous to the time the whole household was aroused last night, he heard a step in the hall overhead, then the sound of a light foot descending the little staircase in the servants' hall. He lowered the gas, closed his door and listened. The steps went by door again and looked out. A young girl was standing not very far from him in a thin streak of moonlight. She was gazing intently at something in her hand, and that something had a purple gleam to it. He is ready to swear to this. Next moment, frightened by some noise she heard, she fled back and vanished again in the region of the little staircase. It was soon, very soon after this that the shriek came. Now, Mr. Worthington, what am I to do with this knowledge? I can not think that Miss Camerden

The ejaculation which escaped me was involuntary.

"Did he say it was Miss Camerden?" I hurriedly inquired. "How should he know Miss Camerden?"

"He described her," was the reply. "Besides, we know that she was circulating in the halls at that time. I declare I have never known a worse business. Let me send for Sinclair; he is more interested than any one else in Gilbertine's relatives; or stay, what if I should send for Miss Camerden herself? She should be able to tell how she came by this box."

I thought Sinclair would like me to answer.

"It is a serious and very perplexing piece of business," said I; "but if you will wait a short time I do not think you will have to trouble Miss Camerden. I am sure that explanations will be given. Give the lady a chance," I stammered.

"She did not come down this morning."

"Naturally not."

"If I could take counsel of my wife! But she is of too nervous a temperament. Do you think I can look for Miss Camerden to explain herself before the doctors return, or before Mrs. Lansing's physician, for whom I have telegraphed, can arrive from New York?"

"I am sure that three hours will not pass before you hear the truth. Leave me to work out the situation. Only keep the gossips from Miss Camerden's good name."

"Every one probably knows by this time that there is some doubt felt as to the cause of Mrs. Lansing's death. You can not keep a suspicion of this nature secret in a house so full of people as this."

I made my way at once to the dining-room. Should I find Miss Lane there? Yes, and the place beside her was unoccupied.

I was on my way to that place when I was struck by the extreme quiet into which the room had fallen. In the hurried glance I cast about the board, not a look met mine in recognition or welcome.

What did it mean? Had they been talking about me? Possibly and in a way, it would seem, that was not altogether flattering to my vanity.

I passed to the seat I have indicated and let my inquiring look settle on Miss Lane. She was staring in imitation of the others straight into her plate, but looked up and acknowledged my courtesy with a faint, almost sympathetic smile.

"How is Miss Murray?" I asked. "I do not see her here."

"Did you expect to? Poor Gilbertine! This is not the bridal day she expected." Then she added: "I think it was just horrid in the old woman to die the night before the wedding; don't you?"

"Indeed, I do," I emphatically rejoined, humoring her in the hope of learning what I wished to know. "Does Miss Murray still cherish the expectation of being married today? No one seems to know."

"Nor do I. I haven't seen her since the middle of the night. She didn't come back to her room. They say she is sobbing out her terror and disappointment in some attic corner. Think of that for Gilbertine Murray! But even that is better than—"

The sentence trailed away into an indistinguishable murmur.

I finished my coffee as soon as possible and quitted the room, but not before many had preceded me. The hall was consequently as full as before of a gossiping crowd.

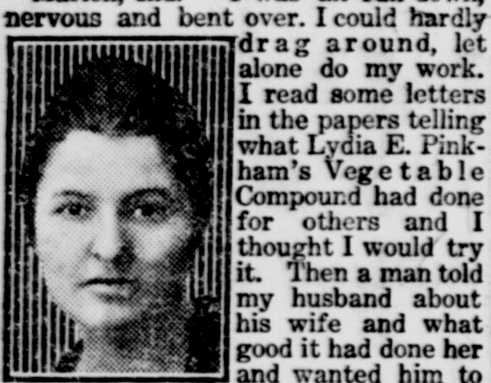

I was on the point of bowing myself through the various groups blocking my way to the library door, when I noticed renewed signs of embarrassment on all the faces turned my way. These marks of disapproval did not seem to be directed so much at myself as at some one behind me. Who could this some one be? Turning quickly, I cast a glance up the staircase before which I stood and saw the figure of a young girl dressed in black hesitating on the landing. This young girl was Dorothy Camerden, and it was against her this feeling of universal constraint had been directed.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Gained Strength, Weight and Now Doing Own Work, by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Marion, Ind.—"I was all run-down, nervous and bent over. I could hardly drag around, let alone do my work."

I read some letters in the papers telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and I thought I would try it. Then a man told my husband about his wife and what good it had done her and wanted him to have me try it. I took one bottle and could see what it did for me in a week's time, and when I had taken three bottles I had gained both in strength and weight and was doing my own work. I took it before my last baby was born and it helped me so much. I sure am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who suffers from female ailments, for I know by experience what it can do. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, also the Liver Pills, too, and think them fine."—Mrs. WM. ELDRIDGE, 620 E. Grant Street, Marion, Indiana.

A record of nearly fifty years service should convince you of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.

THE first thing I would do if I were job hunting would be to run a few lines in the "Situation Wanted" columns of The Daily Republican Want Ad Section. I would tell Rushville employers what I could do and what kind of work I wanted.

This is the most direct line of fire in bringing down a job that I know of. Other job hunters become job holders this way. I am sure the same plan would work for me.

Fresh Oyster or Fish lunch at Madden's Restaurant. 1411Which explosion would you buy for power, mileage and motor safety—
This full-rounded straight-line thrust of Real Gasoline, or this sulky, gappy, kerosene-dripping, half-explosiveness of a k i m p y "cracked" substitutes?

If Your Cylinders Were Made of Glass

—then the startling difference between the explosions of poor, heavy, kerosene-mixed fuel and real, straight-run gasoline would settle your gasoline-buying once and for all time.

Look at chart one. It illustrates how cracked inferior fuel fires in jerks.

With glass cylinders you could actually see how these broken, gappy explosions result in an uneven, weakened power line that peters out to Zero long before the stroke ends.

You could see how the unburned kerosene drips down to dilute the crankcase oil. You could see the excessive carbon deposits, the reluctant starting, slow acceleration, niggardly mileage and lame speed.

Now look at chart two! It illustrates the cycle of real, straight-run gasoline—easily vaporized, highly explosive, genuine old-fashioned quality.

Suction stroke—compression stroke—then the instantaneous full line explosion, exerting its maximum force clean and undiminished clear to the stroke's end. Every atom of gas is exploded. No dirty, sooty carbon residue is left to pit the valves. The explosion is quick, cleancut, complete, with full power—more miles per gallon—more speed per mile.

If you could see this vast difference yourself—just once—you would never again be tempted to use a drop of the poor, cracked fuels sold for gasoline under false banner of supposed lower cost.

"PLANTED" BOOZE IN FRITCH'S HOME

Homer Smalley, Alias Dick Black,
Accused of Causing Arrest of
Former Rushville Man

RELATION TO LOCAL TRIAL

Officials Here in Touch With Situation Which Is Said To Grow
Out Of Fritch's Testimony

Another chapter has been written in the Blaine Fritch episode, according to an Indianapolis dispatch, in which Homer Smalley, age 24, known as Dick Black, it is stated has been arrested on a charge of planting booze in the Fritch home, 708 North Alabama, St., Indianapolis. Smalley confessed to the officers, according to the report, and has implicated a third party, who hired him to plant the booze.

He is being held in jail at Indianapolis unable to give $5,000 bond. Fritch, who formerly lived in Rushville, was the prosecuting witness for the state in the case against Fred Clevenger, and the incident of planting the booze was brought up at the trial here last week.

At the trial, Fritch testified that he had seen Black and Clevenger together at one time in Indianapolis, but the defendant denied knowing anyone by that name in the city.

Black or Smalley is said to be an operative for a detective agency in Indianapolis, and following his arrest he is said to have given the officers a confession, telling them the name of the person who hired him.

The affair has been known here for some time, as a few days before the last trial against Clevenger Fritch was caught by the police, who had been tipped off that there was booze in his house. The officers are said to have found five quarts underneath the rear steps, and when the local officers were notified and explained the circumstances Fritch was not held.

Fritch told the local officers that one day recently Black came to his home and pretended to be the owner of rental property which need to be papered, and during their conversation he made an excuse to go to the bath room.

After he had left, Mrs. Fritch, his mother, went to the bath room to get some cough medicine, and according to the story related, she found four quart bottles of white mule.

The bottles were taken out in the back yard and destroyed, and later that night the place was raided by the police who are said to have uncovered five more quarts hidden under the rear steps.

Fritch suspected that Black had "planted" the booze, and filed an affidavit against him, and he was nabbed yesterday by the police.

Prosecutor Gates Ketchum was notified last night of the arrest of the detective, but the matter will be taken up in the courts there, because the transaction happened in Indianapolis. It was strongly in-

DAUGHERTY IS EXONERATED

House Judiciary Committee Votes
On Impeachment Charge Today

(By United Press)

Washington, Jan. 9.—The house judiciary committee today adopted a report exonerating Attorney General Daugherty from the impeachment charges filed by Representative Keller, Minn. At the same time the committee decided to leave to a decision on the floor of the house the question of whether Keller should be punished under the rules for his refusal to appear before the judiciary committee and give testimony.

Representative Ben Thomas, Democrat of Kentucky, opposed the committee action and declared he would make a minority report to the house advocating an impeachment trial for Daugherty.

Thomas said that while he did not believe any of the Keller charges had been substantiated a further and more complete investigation should be had in the matter.

HOW TO FIND JESUS, TOPIC

People Fail To Seek Him Earnestly
Evangelist McQueen Says

A large crowd attended the meeting at the Salvation Army church last night, to hear Evangelist McQueen on "How to Find Jesus."

In part he said: "The trouble with many people today, trying to find Jesus is not because He will not be found of them, but because they don't seek Him earnestly. The revival spirit is spreading and much interest is being shown. The object of this revival is the salvation of sinners, reclamation of backsliders, and sanctification of believers. In truly finding Jesus, the drunkard becomes a soberman, the thief an honest man, the impure woman becomes pure and unhappy homes are made happy."

Services are being held every afternoon and night at 2:30 and 7:30. The public is invited to these services.

FRIENDS OF LAW TO RESCUE

Soldier Bonus Bill Is Also Introduced
in House and Senate—Other Important Measures

(By United Press)

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—The fight for repeal of the primary election law—one of the storm centers in the Indiana legislature—was on today when two bills were introduced to abolish the primary system.

Senator William Penrod of Logansport, republican, presented the bill to the senate and Julius Schwing of Lawrenceburg, democrat, introduced it in the house.

Lines of those who opposed the primary and those who favored it were being tightly drawn. It was indicated there would be no possibility of rushing the repeal bill through the legislature before the end of the week as republican and democratic state leaders had planned.

Friends of the primary system were hurrying to its rescue. Among these were Ed Toner of Anderson, republican candidate for Governor in the primary in which McCray was

NEXT LITTLE THEATRE BILL SET FOR JAN. 29

Three One-Act Plays Will Be Presented
Again Because Of Popularity Of First Offering

TWO BY FAMOUS PLAYWRIGHTS

The Little Theatre Society of Rushville will give its second bill at the Princess theatre Monday evening, January 29, it was announced today. The bill will consist of three one-act plays, as before.

The second offering of the society will consist of "Suppressed Desires," by Susan Glaspell; "Where The Cross is Made," by Eugene O'Neill, and "Tamar," by Lermontow. The first bill of the society, which was given December 7, was so popular that the play committee was agreed that the same form of a program should be followed again.

"Suppressed Desires" is a comedy with only three characters, and is regarded as a Little Theatre classic because it has been presented by so many societies. Susan Glaspell, one of the authors, is rated as the second best playwright in America.

While Eugene O'Neill, the author of "The Hairy Ape" and "Anna Christie," is the foremost.

"Where The Cross is Made" is a tragedy and offers a fine vehicle it is said, for a Little Theatre group. "Tamar" is a ballet pantomime adapted from a poem by the Russian poet Lermontow.

NATIVE ARMENIAN WILL MAKE APPEAL

Gen. M. Azgapatian Will Open Campaign in Rush County for Near East Relief

SPEAKS SEVERAL LANGUAGES

Former Statesman Will Speak to Joint Session of Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs Wednesday

General Merzop Azgapatian, who will speak to a joint meeting of the Rotary and Kiwanis clubs at the Social club Wednesday noon, in connection with the weekly luncheon of the two clubs, is an Armenian by birth, the scion of one of the best families in Constantinople—a soldier, diplomat and linguist.

General Azgapatian, will speak in Indiana in the interests of the Near East campaign which will be made throughout the United States next month. The appeal will be made through the churches in Rush county. Ministers of the Rushville churches will be special guests of the two clubs to hear General Azgapatian.

The general's father was the "Azgapat" or chief of the nation of the Protestant Christians of the Turkish empire and that is why he has the surname of Azgapatian. His full name is Merzop-Nevton Khan Azgapatian, but he is better known among Armenians as Nevton Khan, the latter being an hereditary title conferred on him by the Shah of Persia, equivalent to the European title of Count.

General Azgapatian is a graduate of Roberts College, an American institution on the Bosphorus and a graduate of Columbia University. He speaks Armenian, English, French, German, Persian, Turkish, Greek and Russian.

While studying in this country General Azgapatian became so devoted to the Armenian cause that he became unpopular with the Turkish court and could not return to his native land. He attained the rank of major general while serving with the army of the Shah in Persia and later represented that country at Washington, D. C. For two years during the world war the general with his wife, Lady Ann Azgapatian, and

REVIVAL OPENS AT CHRISTIAN CHURCH

Exceptionally Large Crowd Gathers
To Hear The Rev. E. Richard
Edwards In First Sermon

SPECIAL MUSIC IS PROVIDED

An exceptionally large audience for Monday evening assembled at the Main Street Christian church to hear the initial sermon of the Rev. E. Richard Edwards. He measured up to all the expectations of what had been said about him.

The Rev. Edwards is of Welsh parentage and was born in New York City where he preached for several years before becoming an adopted Hoosier where he has labored for several years, having held pastorates at Bedford, Kokomo, Martinsville and is now entering on his eighth year at Logansport. Though of foreign parentage, he is a one hundred per cent American.

His theme last evening, "The Place and Power of Pentecost" in which he presented the fact that Pentecost was the mountain peak of God's revelation and power as manifest among men. Here the new kingdom was born, and the conditions of salvation in Christ were presented. Here the new born church received power to go forth to win the world to Christ.

Tonight the subject will be "The Supreme Summons." A large chorus choir was present to lead in the song service last night and will be each evening throughout the meeting. Mrs. Will McVay of Richmond will sing at the services this evening.

FEATURE DANCE ON PROGRAM

Grand March at Charity Ball Will Begin Promptly at 8:30

The grand march at the Tri Kappa charity ball, to be given at the Elks club, will begin promptly at 8:30 o'clock tonight, but it will not be led by the patronesses of the sorority and their husbands, which is contrary to the first announcement that was made. FARM HOME TOPIC FOR SHORT COURSE

Classes In All Lines Of Work Suspended To Discuss How It Might Be Improved

THREE THINGS FUNDAMENTAL

Industry, Honesty And Economy
Essential To Build Home, E. I.
Miller Of Lafayette Says

(Special to the Daily Republican.)

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—The Indiana Farm Home the institution around which all the agricultural progress of the state really centers was the central theme before the annual farmer's short course at Purdue University today. Classes in all other lines of work were suspended during the afternoon while the farm men and women devoted their time to a discussion of the farm home and how it might be improved.

E. I. Miller, of near Lafayette, president of the Tippecanoe County Farmer's Federation, and Mrs. Lawrence J. Foster, wife of a prominent Montgomery stockman and farmer, were the principal speakers. Their talks with the discussion is expected to lead to a well formed program calling for improvement of the state's farm homes.

"There are no fixed rules for securing a home, but there are three fundamentals—industry, honesty and economy," said Mr. Miller in the course of his remarks. "I would have you to build a home filled with patience, kindness, meekness, and forgiveness. Such a home will radiate to the community and state, service, friendship, and good citizenship. The real home is its occupants or builders and in this sense, our

ART EXHIBIT TO BE HELD HERE THIS MONTH

Randolph LaSalle Coats Will Exhibit
Paintings in D. A. R. Room in Court House Jan. 21—27

NEPHEW OF RUSHVILLE WOMAN

Rushville is to have an exhibition of paintings by Randolph LaSalle Coats, nephew of Mrs. E. A. Lee of this city, week after next. It will be held in the D. A. R. room connecting with the public library in the court house. Mr. Coats visited at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Monday and made arrangements for the exhibit.

The exhibition, which will be open to the public during the week of January 21-27, consists of twenty canvasses in oil showing a variety of subject matter, including landscapes, figure compositions and still life. A number of canvasses are from Mr. Coats' brush while abroad the past summer. There are a few painted last summer at Provincetown, Mass., a New England painting colony. Others were painted at Cincinnati, Ohio, where Mr. Coats was a member of the faculty of the Cincinnati Academy of Fine Arts for four years.

REPARATIONS BODY ACTION

Finds Germany in Default of Coal
Payments in 1922—British Vote
Against Finding

(By United Press)

Berlin, Jan. 9.—French staff officers arrived at Duisburg today, according to the German government advices and troops are enroute.

Neuss notified the government that heavy artillery together with detachments of pioneers and engineers arrived there. At Dusseldorf the French are requisitioning automobiles, official reports say.

Advance guards of French troops under General DeGoutte has arrived at Ketwrig, near Essen, according to a dispatch from the latter city.

Cities of Essen were surprised that the French did not enter during the night. Railroads and hotels were ready to receive them.

By WEBB MILLER

(U. P. Staff Correspondent)

Paris, Jan. 9.—The reparations commission, by a vote of three to one today found Germany voluntary in default of coal payments to France during 1922.

Sir John Bradburn, British representative voted against the finding.

This is a necessary technical action which was to precede French invasion of the Ruhr valley and occupation of Essen.

Marshal Foch's military plans waited upon action by the allies finding Germany in default.

The reparations commission notified the French government of the default, and it was semi-officially stated action will follow almost immediately, possibly tomorrow.

American observer Boyden made a statement to the commission before it took a vote. He refused to divulge its nature, but stated he made no reservations.

France, backed by Belgium and Italy, made speedy finish of the reparations commission's sitting today. Ten German experts had succeeded in delaying matters yesterday by haranguing all afternoon but they today were called speedily to account and the vote France asked of the commission was taken.

By the vote Germany is found to have wilfully defaulted in amount of coal that should have been delivered to France during the past year. The Germans claimed they delivered so much they were forced to import other coal themselves.

The French clapped immediate censorship, applying to foreign as well as local newspaper correspondents upon forecasts of what France will do. But the press agrees that invasion is practically at hand. It is expected that the French will not wait until Thursday when Premier Poincare addresses the chamber of deputies, before acting. He may press his deputies, before acting. He may

Residence of Mrs. Daniel Ryan Destroyed by Fire

The residence owned and occupied by the widow of Daniel Ryan, was destroyed by fire in Morristown Monday morning at a loss estimated at $3,500. A defective flue is believed to have caused the fire. The residence was two stories, and was also occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Talbert. It contained ten rooms and was one of the most beautiful homes in Morristown.

People of Morristown assisted in carrying out household goods, and practically everything was saved from the burning structure. The fire was one of the greatest which has visited Morristown in years. Mrs. Ryan is well known in Rush county, her husband having served as pastor of Methodist churches at Carthage, Glenwood and other points.

FARMERS STUDY BEST CORN TYPE

During November Seven of Eight
Ear to Row Plots in Hancock
County Were Harvested

BUILDS UP HIGH STRAIN

Part of Program Being Carried on
Throughout State to Encourage
Use of Better Seed

During November, seven of the eight ear to row plots in Hancock County were harvested. In each case, each ear was given the germination test and being of a desirable type, one-third was planted in a row to itself. Thus the plot was made up of from 30 to 50 rows each, planted by hand from an individual ear. The remnant ears in all cases were numbered and preserved for future use. The results show a marked variation in the yielding qualities of the several ears though they were growing on the same soil, climatic and fertility conditions. Each row was harvested and yield determined by actual weight. In practically all cases the yield of the lowest producing was doubled by the yield of the highest producing ear. Following is a brief summary of the results.

Farmer	Average yield per acre-bu	Difference 5 high and 5 low ears
J. Trillipo	88.3	21.7
E. Smith	82.0	55.6
T. Deupree	80.4	31.5
W. Parnell	78.5	38.7
W. Oldham	77.6	29.7
H. Binford	76.2	21.6
C. White	67.0	48.3

In each case the grower will choose the high yielding ears, shell them together and plant them in a plot by themselves, from which as much good seed as possible will be selected. This is believed to be the most practical means of building up a high production strain of corn.

This ear to row work is part of the program being carried on throughout Indiana to improve the corn crop by encouraging the use of better seed which is free from disease. It is a project of the Agricultural Extension Department of Purdue University and county agents, co-operating with farm bureaus, are staging the demonstrations as one means of bringing the point home to all the farmers. M. E. Cromer, Hancock County Agent, and the county farmers' organization conducted the demonstrations results of which have just been given.

PURDUE WILL OFFER 3 TRACTOR COURSES

Two Weeks Sessions Will Be Given
For Farmers On Gas Engines At
State Agriculture School

FIRST COURSE ON JAN. 20

The Department of Farm Mechanics, School of Agriculture, Purdue University, announces a series of three tractor short courses in tractor and gas engines. Each of the courses are alike in instruction and time, two weeks. The courses start Jan. 29, Feb. 2 and Feb. 28.

These courses are the same as those which have been held in the past and are given especially for the farmers who use, or expect to use, gas engines, or tractors for their power requirements. They enable one to become more familiar with the different power plant constructions and characteristics.

Valve timing and adjustment, carburetion, ignition, lubrication cooling and fuel systems, belt and drawbar ratings, fuel tests and trouble hunting, form and basis of this practical work which includes lecture and laboratory periods with several representative types of tractors and gas engines used in this section of the country.

Those expecting to attend one of these schools should enroll as soon as possible, as twenty students only can be enrolled for each course. A fee of $2.00 will be charged to cover cost of fuel and other materials used. This is the students only expense above board, lodging and transportation.

8 WEEKS COURSE OPENS JANUARY 15

Work in General Agriculture, Animal
Husbandry, Dairying and Home Economics Offered

FARMS NEED TRAINED MEN

Course Designed For Men and Women
Who Can Not Get Away For a 4 Year Course in Agriculture

Lafayette, Ind., Jan. 9.—The annual eight weeks' winter course in agriculture and home economics will be given again at Purdue University Jan. 15 to March 9, 1923. Five different lines of work, including general agriculture, animal husbandry, dairy manufacturing, dairy production, and home economics are included in the courses offered, the dairy work being divided into two courses for the first time.

"Agriculture is calling for trained men and women. Knowledge is power and farming is unsuccessful without it," reads an announcement sent out to prospective students. "The winter courses come at a time when there is a lull in farm work that enables young men and women to get away from the farm without seriously interfering with its operations. The cost is not great as compared with the benefits, since the increased earning power alone of anyone taking a winter course will be permanent. The courses are up-to-date and practical, the instructors competent, and facilities the same as offered to the four-year students.

The courses are designed especially for men and women who cannot get away for the four year course, but want additional education along agricultural lines.

Last year, five states were represented in the winter course and a steadily growing enrollment indicates a number more from outside the state will be here. Some of the most successful farmers in Indiana have taken the eight weeks' course and now come back every year for the farmers' week, to keep in touch with the progress made in all lines of agriculture.

A large number will come to the university for farmers' week Jan. 8 to 12 and then stay over for the eight weeks' course, which begins the following Monday.

WINTER RATINGS FOR COWS GIVEN

400 Lbs. Ground Corn, 200 Lbs.
Ground Oats, 100 Lbs. Cotton Seed
Meal, a Ration Recommended

INTERESTING DATA GIVEN

Legume Hay in Ration Decreases
Feed Cost, Increases Returns on
Home Grown Grains

By E. A. GANNON

(Dairy Dept. Purdue University)

The question of what feeds to select and how to feed the herd under various conditions is the most important question any dairyman has to answer at this season of the year. The two rations below are recommended and will produce economical results under Indiana conditions.

When legume hay and silage are available feed a grain mixture as follows:

First Ration

400 pounds ground corn.
200 pounds ground oats or bran.
100 pounds cotton seed meal or oil meal.

When Legume hay is not available and silage is, feed the following grain mixture:

Second Ration

100 pounds ground corn.
100 pounds ground oats or bran.
100 pounds cotton seed meal or oil meal.

Feed 1 pounds of either of the above grain mixtures for every 3 pounds of Guernsey or Jersey milk and for every 4 pounds of Ayrshire or Holstein milk produced per day.

A comparison of the two rations reveals some interesting data on marketing home grown grain and on cost of producing 1 pound of butterfat. A 1,000 pound cow producing 20 pounds of 5% milk requires 10 pounds of a good legume hay, 30 pounds silage, 7 pounds of the first grain mixture. The cost of this ration, at the present prices of grain on the market, is 37.4c.

Twenty pounds of 5% milk produces 1 pound of butterfat as a feed cost of 27.4c. The first grain mixture contains four parts by weight of corn, the home grown grain. The four pounds of corn cost 6.4c and when fed in a balanced ration returns 11.6c when the product is sold as butterfat on the market at 50c per pound. One bushel of corn marketed by feeding to a dairy cow in a balanced ration and sold as butterfat at 50c a pound returns 1.62c per bushel. The market price of this corn at present time is 90c per bushel when sold as ground corn.

The market price of ground corn was quoted at $32.00 per ton, when fed in a balanced ration to cows producing as described, this same corn will sell for $57.85 per ton.

When the second ration is fed to the same cow the grain mixture must supply more protein than the first grain mixture, due to the lack of a legume hay in the second ration. A ration consisting of 12 pounds of timothy hay, 30 pounds silage and 8 pounds of the second grain mixture will supply the requirements of the cow. This ration cost 30.6c per day or a feed cost of 30.7c to produce 1 pound butterfat. In this ration only 1/4 of the grain mixture is home grown, while in the first ration 4/7 of the grain mixture is home grown. The 2 1/2 pounds corn at the same value as corn in the other ration is returning 6.9c or selling corn at the rate of $1.45 per bushel when fed in this ration and butterfat selling at 50c per pound. One ton of ground corn fed in this ration sells for $51.77 per ton.

Legume hay in the ration decreases the feed cost, increases the returns on home grown grains, enables the dairyman to feed more home grown grain at greater returns per bushel or ton than when sold on the market as corn and saves concentrates.

Comparing the cost of production of the two rations, the first ration costs 27.4c while the second ration costs 30.7c or stating it another way the cost to produce 1 pound butterfat with the first ration is 27.4c per pound and with the second ration the cost of production is 30.7c per pound, a difference of 3.3c per pound of butterfat in favor of the first ration.

The first ration returns $1.62 per bushel for the corn fed, while the second ration returns $1.45 a difference of 17c per bushel which is a big item in marketing grain. The cost of one ton of the first ration is $32.92 while the cost per ton of the second ration is $36.33. One pound of corn returns 2.9c in the first ration and 2.6c in the second ration.

Those feeding legumes have the advantage of feeding more of their home grown grains and the benefits from the increased returns when compared with the dairymen producing milk with no legume hay in the ration. The former are able to market more of their home grown grains at a higher price than the latter. The first ration contains 3/7 or 42% commercial feed and if oats are fed in place of bran then only 14% is a commercial feed. In the second ration 66% by weight are commercial feeds, when oats replace bran then 33% of the ration is a commercial feed.

THE ONLY FREEDOM: Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.—John 8: 32.

Memorial Day Observance

Biennially, with the meeting of each Indiana general assembly, comes the movement to prevent the desecration of Memorial Day by commercialized games and sports. No amount of agitation by patriotic societies and citizens has ever been successful in causing to be enacted a law that would prevent the observance of the day for purposes other than those for which it was created, but the movement nevertheless grows in strength each year and eventually public sentiment will reach such a point that desecration of the day will be made illegal.

Memorial Day is not observed as it should be simply because the people of Indiana do not will that it shall be. If the sentiment of the people were such that they would frown on events like the Speedway races, enforcement of a law to prevent commercialized sports on this holiday would be a comparatively easy task. But the sentiment is lacking. Instead of remembering the heroic dead in some fitting way, the vast majority of the people of the state

With the general idea in view of bringing folks to their senses, the General Memorial association has been formed in Indianapolis, with the motto, "To perpetuate the observance of Memorial Day and to inculcate patriotism and love of country."

An appeal for support of a bill to carry out the purposes of the association has been issued and is signed by A. J. Ball, assistant adjutant general of the G. A. R.; James Robbins, Anderson post of the G. A. R.; Indianapolis; James W. Fessler, Spanish-American war veteran; J. P. Ragsdale, past commander of Bruce Robinson post, American Legion; Newton J. McGuire, secretary general of the Memorial Association, Indianapolis; Edna E. Pauley, president of the Indiana Federated Patriotic societies; and E. S. Shumaker, national patriotic instructor of the Sons of Veterans, U. S. A.

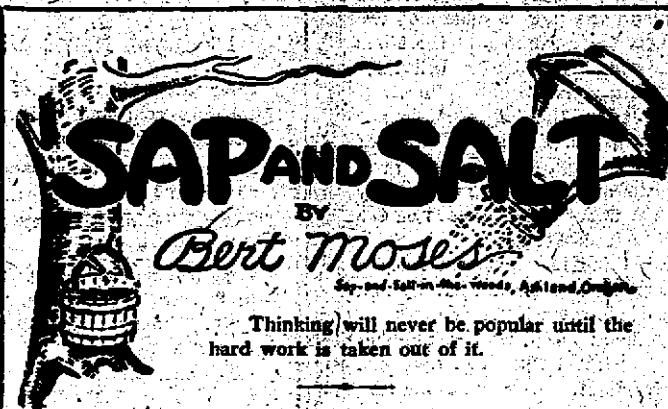

"The last remaining hero of the civil war will soon be gone," says the appeal from the association "Over one hundred thousand of them now sleep in our state in the soil which they dedicated to freedom. And thousands more of our brave lads of the Spanish-American and World Wars also slumber in the silent cities of the dead in Indiana. We owe it to their memories, we owe it to their surviving comrades, and we owe it to the present and rising generations, to rid Memorial Day of commercialized games and sports, and to keep it sacred as a day when a grateful people will pay loving tribute to our country's illustrious defenders, and show that our Nation is still patriotic and not ungrateful."

"The tendency to desecrate this day through commercialized games and sports has become appalling. If persisted in it will eventually deprive our country of that fine fiber of manhood without which a Nation cannot permanently endure. A bill to rescue Memorial Day from further desecration by commercialized games and sports has been prepared, has the endorsement of the survivors of the Civil, Spanish-American, and World War Veterans, and will be at once introduced into the Legislature. We, therefore, make this appeal to the general public, asking their co-operation in securing the passage of this bill, and appeal to all lovers of our country to let their state senators and representatives know that they desire the passage of this bill."

home are what we make them. It can be a home of hatred or a home of love."

Mrs. Foster made a strong appeal for a deeper appreciation on the part of farmers generally for the farm home and what it really signifies rather than "merely a place to eat and sleep."

"More money is a need of the farm home today, and has been for years past. I mean that not a large enough share of this farm income has gone into the farm home, and there has been too little consideration of what it would mean to the farm family to make it a more convenient and attractive place to really enjoy living," said Mrs. Foster.

"The farm home needs more co-operation among its members. If parents were equally interested and informed on all farm activities and would only take time to talk things over and decide together what was needed most to make farming successful from the standpoint of a home, we would have happier farm families. Co-operation spells the difference between contentment and discord."

Mrs. Foster suggested that a farmer butcher one less hog, or eat a fewer number of eggs and chickens and sell the products instead and put the money into home improvements.

The morning program for the men included instruction in corn judging by Prof. M. L. Fisher; judging of stock to be slaughtered, by Prof. F. G. King; judging of dairy cattle by Prof. L. H. Fairchild; what farm products to produce and where, by C. L. Burkholder; and prevention of soil erosion by C. A. Norman. These talks were followed by organized inspection trips to the university farms and agricultural buildings for both men and women.

Mr. Norman described the Mangum terrace which he and other Purdue workers have introduced to the farmers of southern Indiana to stop the rapid runoff of surface water and consequent washing of the hills until they become unfit for cultivation. Prof. Davis described in an illustrated lecture various methods to control the chinch bug which ravaged Hoosier corn fields the last two summers.

The women's short course visitors were guests of the home economics department at tea at the close of the afternoon program. J. Clyde Marquis, of the Department of Agriculture, one of the best known agricultural publicists and economists in the country, will speak tonight on "The New Business of Farming."

The short course give promise of drawing an unusually large crowd during the week, despite the snowfall over the state.

GARFIELD HAS A SCRAPPY QUINTET

WAS SURPRISE LAST YEAR

Although New Team This Year, it Has The Fighting Spirit Which Won Them Most Last Year

By GUY A. BOWSER
(Written for United Press)

Terre Haute, Ind., Jan. 9.—Will the Garfield high school basketball five create as much surprise in the 1923 state championship as it did last year? The Terre Haute basketball team which went unknown to the state finals and came near upsetting the strong Franklin team proved to be one of the hardest working, fighting teams in the tournament.

The team this year is without practically every man that played in the tournament. Although Garfield has lost there mainstays, Coach "Red" Hanna, has probably built a team this year that will go just as far as the team of 1922.

Even at this early date of the basketball season the purple and white quintet has played like a team in mid-season form. It has won in fine fashion all the games it has played.

The loss of "Babe" Wheeler, all state center, was keenly felt by the Garfield team, but with Armour, captain-elect of 1923, Coach Hanna has probably developed a player who will even be better than Wheeler. Torr, the strong guard, is also lost by graduation; Gault, however, has proved to be a hard working individual and can shift from running guard to back position with ease. The remainder of the Garfield team is composed of "Art" Reinking, whirlwind forward, who succeeded in scoring from the side line and again last year; "Ben" Everson who has been able to play a consistent game at either running or back guard; and "Tubby" Kirchner, who is tall of stature, which gives him great advantages in the center position.

Vincennes, one of the strongest contenders in the state, is scheduled on the Garfield chart, and this game should be one grand preamble to those following the game.

While the Garfield team has not a long string of games won, they have the reputation of being one of the hardest working fighting teams in the state. It is also just as strong as it was last year when critics said it would have won the tournament if it had had the practice.

Fans Will Watch New Managers

By HENRY L. FARRELL
(United Press Sports Editor)
New York, Jan. 9.—Three new managers with widely varying chances for success, will turn clubs into 1923 pennant races.

For Arthur Fletcher and Donie Bush it will be a chance to make a name; for Frank Chance it will be a case of living up to a name.

Donie Bush, of the three, is the only one to be congratulated.

Success means failure in Philadelphia. If you win with Baker's National League Club, you lose. If you get a pennant for Baker like Pat Moran, you get the gate from Baker. Such a proposition, and even worse, because he has only the material to fail with is what Arthur Fletcher is up against.

The Phils are a tail end club and a poor one at that. They were not a cellar bolder last year, because the Boston Braves had the worst string of luck in years and forced the Phils into seventh place.

Liberal spending and patient building are the only hopes for the Phils. Art Fletcher is a smart ball player and in three or four years with help from Baker he might build up a team.

Fletcher, however, has a one year contract. That tells the whole story.

Hugo Bezdek turned down a $20,000 offer to manage the Pirates and the fans said: "Wise old boy."

Fletcher accepted (not for $20,000) and the verdict was: "Poor old Art."

Washington had nearly everything a fine ball club needed last season but a fighting heart. Looking for some manager to improve the club, Clarke Griffith picked a fighter—little Bush.

Clyde Milan and McBride were fine fellows, but they were quiet and easy going and they speared that atmosphere on the bench. Roger Peckinpaugh was considered as a helmsman, but he too lacked the aggressiveness of a Gleason Cobb, McGraw or Speaker.

For a combination of brains, experience and spirit, Bush was picked and he seems an ideal selection.

Many critics this time last year thought that the Senators would be two, three or four in the 1922 race, but they failed simply because they did not get on and go after 'em.

Bush has practically the same material to handle with one year added on them. One year may or may not mean a lot with Walter Johnson, but it should not cause the other members of the team to go back much.

The Senators are a fast team; they have good pitchers and if Bush can get them to bear down and rear up, he ought to be a winner.

Frank Crane, the "Peerless Leader" of the old Cubs, says he'll be satisfied if he gets the Boston Red Sox in the first division in four years.

Everyone else ought to be satisfied, too.

Chance has only a year's contract, but he's satisfied that he'll make enough improvement in one year to get another one.

He hasn't a thing to work with at Boston—and, strange to say, he maintains that is what appealed to him.

"When the Cubs were in their glory, they used to say that anybody could manage that team; that it managed itself and I was just the foreman," he said recently. "Well, if I do anything with the Red Sox, they can't say I worked with a handpicked team."

As long as Harry Frazee works for the cash only, the Red Sox will never have a picked team, but they will always have a hand-plucked team.

NO APOLOGIES RIGHT NOW

Hittin' 'em makes his bow today. He will appear from day to day, depending upon whether this column is read and supported. Fans are asked to help out, and only in this way can it be made of general interest. Sometimes Hittin' 'em will criticize, and sometimes he will throw some bouquets, but at all times the editor of this column will not be "libel" for damages, or for rotten eggs.

WHITELAND WAS THE GOAT

Last Friday night, the Columbus Bull Dogs, after losing four straight games played Whiteland overwhelming them 62 to 7. Headline in Columbus paper, "Whiteland Feels Wrath of Defeat—Stung Bull Dogs."

If Might Have Been Worse

The same account says that the last half was cut short five minutes because Whiteland wanted to catch a car.

Here is a Safe Bet

Hittin' 'em hopes for the best. May Columbus lose their next game. Rushville lost to them early in the season at Columbus, but Friday night when the Bull Dogs come here, he will almost gamble that the score won't be 62 to 7.

Even Connersville Loses Now and Then

Hamilton, O., high school net tossers didn't have much trouble in trouncing them, 31 to 20, but it was n't Connersville's first loss this year.

GINGS LOST ONE TOO

Bentonville high school defeated Gings Hi Friday night 34 to 19. Bentonville has won six out of seven games played this season. Two Walkers starred for Bentonville, while G. Joyce led the scoring for the losers with 13 points.

Lot of people didn't even know Gings had a team.

No team from Moscow would be complete, unless there was a Tillison, or Gosnell playing on it.

Wonder what Carthage is doing this year without Luckey Black?

John Geraghty, mentor of the Webb high school, has produced a real basket shot in Talbert, captain and forward. In six games played this season, he has caged 33 field goals. Eat 'em up Talbert, old boy. Sorry you don't live here.

Greensburg lost another branch off their tree in the court house tower, when Tipton came down and grabbed off a 31 to 11 victory.

Richmond is still wondering why they only defeated Connersville 27 to 25. It gives them something to worry about, because Connersville won the sectional honors from them last year.

Shelbyville had something to crow about at last. They defeated Franklin for the first time in years. The celebration which followed the game, even excelled the big time when the armistice was signed. A bonfire was built in the public square and people living in Franklin, 18 miles away, heard the commotion, and knew what had happened. Even the firemen, who answered three false alarms, enjoyed the affair.

Newcastle had a close call again, when they nosed out Cambridge City 25 to 23. Newcastle likes 'em real close.

When the Crowd Drops

Isn't it a funny thing, that when a team is winning games, the gymnasium is always packed, but when the team begins to hit stiff teams, and drops a game now and then, the crowd gets smaller. Human nature is peculiar. Everyone wants to win. This time last year Rushville had $1500 in the treasury, but today, it is whispered around that there isn't enough money left to buy passage for the high school band on any future trip.

AMUSEMENTS

Big Week At The Princess

This is a big week at the Princess. Following closely on the two-day appearance of Joy Marshall and her band, together with Jack Holt in "While Satan Sleeps," comes the announcement of "The Old Homestead," a first line picture that is billed for Wednesday, Thursday and Friday.

Miss Marshall and her musicians pleased large crowds at the Princess Monday and they were to make their last appearance this afternoon and tonight.

The phrase "all star" has been much abused, but the cast of "The Old Homestead" may be truthfully said to be of that calibre. Theodore Roberts, George Fawcett, T. Roy Barnes, Fritz Ridgway, Harrison Ford, Kathleen O'Connor, James Mason, Ethel Wales and others make up a list that is hard to surpass.

This paramount picture is based on Denham Thompson's famous play in which that celebrated actor appeared for thirty-two years, but is far more extensive in character and presents a great drama with plenty of comedy and a smashing climax.

The story is familiar—How the son of Uncle Josh is falsely accused of theft and goes away to meet with stirring adventure and finally to be restored to his home and sweetheart. But there is far more than that to the story. There is adventure, love, human character in abundance, humor that is rich and spontaneous and pathos that is deep and convincing. Tears and laughter abound.

James Cruze directed with discretion and sympathy, this great story which was adapted by Perley Poore Sheehan and Frank E. Woods, scenarized by Julien Josephson and supervised by Walter Woods.

FRENCH ADVANCE GUARD NEAR ESSEN

present occupation of Essen as an accomplished fact.

Breach of Treaty, Says Cuno
Berlin, Jan. 9.—France's proposed seizure of Essen would constitute "a breach of the treaty," as an act of force against a defenseless people," declared Chancellor Cuno today in an interview with American correspondents. He condemned France's course and simultaneously renewed Germany's offer of a peace pact.

The chancellor emphasized Germany's calm view of France's move, adding "we shall forever yield to force, and we cannot forever yield to threats and thus go into the abyss. The allies in Paris did not desire to hear our proposals and could not agree to their own. The solution has again been postponed. Certain French circles apparently really believe that reparations can be obtained through force.

"I said at Hamburg that every compulsory measure signified death to economic reparations. I repeat this today most seriously and emphatically. Just so strongly as we were and ready to pay the limit of our economic strength, just so strongly are we unwilling to how to compulsion. We have proved our willingness to pay voluntarily. The German people, if necessary, will walk the road of suffering, but they will not deal under pressure and threats.

"We cannot meet force with force, but in the complete agreement of the German people and in their fullest resolution we can do this: show the world in its true light the economic unreasonableness and illegality of the French procedure.

"But force remains force. France is attempting to garb her action with the appearance of right by taking sanctions, pawns which claim the support of the Versailles treaty, but this treaty, no matter how terrible it is otherwise does not permit France, according to her whims, to infringe on German sovereignty, or invade German territory.

"If France now intends to proceed further on her own responsibility; if she want confine herself to limitations but stretches her hand further across the Rhineland that means a breach of the treaty and an act of force against a defenseless nation."

Cuno is known to be bitterly disappointed at the rejection of the anti-war pact, which he regarded as "democracy carried to its loftiest conception" through the application of the plebiscite regarding war.

ON FARMERS' WEEK CARD HOW TO FEED LAYERS IS

What and how much should laying hens get to eat is part of the lecture on "Feeding Laying Hens" that will be discussed by Professor A. G. Phillips at the Purdue University Farmers' Short Course, January 11, 1923.

Too many pullets get too little rather than too much feed during the winter months. Where trap-nests have been available and individual hens weighed every two weeks, the Purdue Experiment Station has found that pullets increasing in weight have kept up a good winter egg production, but where they have lost weight, egg production ceased, followed by a molt.

"Heavy consumption of feed is necessary to maintain weight and a large amount of grain must be eaten along with the proper mash mixture. The pullets in winter should be made to consume all the grain they want without spoiling the appetite, even to the extent of using artificial lights at 4 o'clock in the morning. Corn is a splendid grain, but if unpalatable, cracked corn may be used in its place.

"SUPER SHIEK" JAILED

(By United Press)

Chicago, Jan. 9.—Martin Durkin, "super shiek," of Griffith, Ind., was lodged in jail here today, charged with stealing an automobile and three wives.

According to police Durkin stole a flivver and departed for a tour of Florida with Mrs. Margaret West, Mrs. Anna Lindel and Mrs. Mabel Savant, all of Chicago. Durkin and his companions returned today.

Durkin told police that Florida trip was marred by frequent stops to quell quarrels between his three companions.

"I brought 'em back. I'm glad I did. The women are glad I did and the husbands ought to be glad I did," Durkin told police.

Miss Daisy Simms, Who Died in Mattoon, Ill., Gained Prominence in Y. W. C. A. Work

FRIENDS WERE AT BEDSIDE

Members of National Board Summoned When Condition Became Critical—History of Her Career

That Miss Daisy Simms, former Rushville girl who died in Mattoon, Ill., last Saturday afternoon, was a national and international figure in Y. W. C. A. work, is revealed by an account of her death in a Mattoon newspaper which was received here today.

Miss Simms was apparently in good health when she arrived in Mattoon Christmas eve to spend the holidays. Within a few days she complained of feeling ill and a week ago last Saturday her condition became so serious that a physician was called. He recommended an immediate operation, discovering that Miss Simms was suffering from a serious mastoid trouble. The operation was performed Sunday, and for a short time it appeared as though she would recover. However, her condition changed for the worse Tuesday night, and steadily grew worse until Thursday afternoon, at which time all hopes of her recovery were abandoned. At that time, Miss Simms lapsed into unconsciousness, in which condition she remained until death except for brief partially lucid intervals.

Concerning her life and work the Mattoon paper says:

Miss Simms was born in Rushville, Ind., on April 17, 1873. She attended high school at Rushville, and on graduating entered DePaul University, Greencastle, Ind., from which she was graduated with a B. A. degree. After her graduation, she went to Chicago, where she first began her work with the Young Women's Christian Association. When only a young girl, she became a member of the Methodist Church, and retained her affiliations with that denomination throughout her life.

Miss Simms was widely known in connection with her work with the Young Women's Christian Association. Her reputation in this work not only extended throughout this country, but also in England and France, as well as wherever the work of the Y. W. C. A. extended. For more than twenty-seven years she had been actively engaged in this work, entering it in 1896.

During that time she had served in many capacities. After becoming familiar with the work of the organization, she became general secretary at Binghamton, N. Y. Several years later she was assigned similar duties at Portland, Me., the latter appointment being one of great responsibilities.

From general secretary work, Miss Simms was graduated into work of a larger scope and carrying a corresponding increase in duties. She served as state secretary of the Y. W. C. A. work in Michigan; her work attracting considerable attention.

At the opening of the year of 1905, so great had Miss Simms' reputation as a worker in the organization became that she was offered the position of national industrial secretary, and she had been a member of the national board since that time.

In 1910 Miss Simms was appointed a delegate to the international association convention held in Berlin, Germany, and at that convention she offered ideals and standards for consideration that were adopted and made a part of the mission of the organization.

In the fall of 1919 she was sent to Europe as a member of the Young Women's Christian Association's industrial committee and remained there three months, investigating industrial conditions among women of France and England. At that time her health was none too good, but throughout her stay she was tireless in doing the work assigned her, and she won the whole-hearted co-operation of the workers of those countries.

Three members of the national board, including Miss Mabel Cratty, general secretary of the national board, have been in Mattoon since the serious illness of Miss Simms was announced. Miss Cratty is accompanied by Miss Imogene E. Ireland of the national industrial board, and Miss Louise Holmquist, the latter head of the student department of the national board. Miss Cratty and Miss Simms have been associated together in the work of the organization for more than seventeen years, during which time they had been roommates.

thousands of other Armenians fought with the Russian forces but were compelled to flee to the United States when Bolshevism got the upper hand. They were about to join the British at Bagdad when Russia collapsed. The general and his wife have been ardent workers in Red Cross and Liberty Loan drives.

General Azgapatian is said to be an eloquent and forceful speaker with an unusual command of fluent English. He says that the people of America are entitled to be more fully informed regarding the Near East; that they have a right to know whether the Armenians are or are not worthy of the generous contributions that are being sent them through the Near East Relief. Are they educated and industrious? Does their past and present history promise anything good for the future? or are they illiterate semi-barbarians like the cruel and fanatical Turks? Answering these questions the general also graphically tells the story of the heroic and glorious service of a quarter of a million Armenian recruits and volunteers under the various flags of the Allies.

timated that the alleged third party whose name was withheld, would also be arrested on a charge of being an accessory before the fact.

Fritch also was arrested on a larceny charge filed from Connersville, but officers are conducting an investigation in an effort to ascertain whether the charge is based on facts or whether it is false. The prosecuting witness in that case gave her name as Mae Stevens and she charged that Fritch and Frank Rogers of this city jointly with the theft of a diamond ring.

When the warrant was required here, no action was taken on it, and an investigation was begun in Connersville, it is stated.

CAPTURE IRISH REBELS

Dublin, Jan. 9.—Free State forces in armored boats and airplanes captured a rebel stronghold on Quaker Island in Lough Rea today, killing four of the defenders and capturing the others. Five Free State soldiers were reported to have been executed yesterday on charges of treachery in having assisted insurgents.

nominated, and Albert J. Beveridge, author and former senator.

The soldier bonus bill, drafted by the veterans of the foreign wars, was presented in the house of representatives by Remy Bierly of Elizabeth, a democrat, and Ezra Graham of Warsaw, a republican.

The bill would give soldiers, sailors, marines and nurses, $10 for each month they served in the world war, not to exceed $250. The bill provides a tax levy to be stretched out over a period of three years, the amount to be determined by the state tax board with payment to beneficiaries to be extended over the same period. Immediate relatives of the deceased soldiers are mentioned as beneficiaries.

Other important measures introduced in the senate included:

Limiting the bond indebtedness of municipal corporations to one per cent of the valuation of the taxable property. The limit is now two per cent.

Amendment to the constitution providing that the majority of votes cast in a referendum is sufficient to enact a constitutional amendment.

Prevent sports on Memorial Day which would prohibit the 500-mile automobile sweepstakes here.

Make bootlegging and manufacturing of liquor a felony instead of a misdemeanor with punishment by imprisonment for one to five years and a maximum fine of $1,000.

The primary repeal measure drafted by Senator Will Penrod of Loogootee, bore the stamp of the donkey and the elephant. After republican state leaders had approved the measure, they went into conference with Democratic State Chairman Walter Chambers and brought out the measure with the okch.

It was prepared to introduction in the senate by Penrod, and in the house by Thurman Gottchalk minority leader, today with a strong partisan demand that it be pushed through both houses and onto Governor McCray's desk before the end of the week. McCray stand of opposition to the primary has been known ever since he entered public life, and there is no question as to his signing it.

The bill provides that all state officers including Governor and United States senator shall be nominated in convention and that the presidential preference primary shall be abolished. The nomination of local officers by primary would be optional.

It was revealed that the election committees in both senate and house were comprised of men opposed to the primary systems picked before the legislature convened.

Despite this however, there was certain to be strong opposition to the bill. Many of the lawmakers had been instructed by the folks back home to fight for retention of the primary system. Other had an aversion to taking the direct nominating vote away from the people and restoring it to the old convention plan.

APARTMENTS CATCH FIRE

WOMAN AND HER LOVER PAY MURDER PENALTY

Mrs. Percy Thompson and Frederick Bywaters, Found Jointly Guilty For Crime, are Hanged

ALL CLEMENCY APPEALS FAIL

(By United Press)

London, Jan. 9.—Mrs. Percy Thompson, was hanged at 9 o'clock this morning at Holloway jail for murder of her husband October 4. At the same time, in Pentonville Prison, Frederick Edward Bywaters, her lover, found jointly guilty of the crime, was hanged.

Hundreds gathered in chilling rain outside the prisons awaiting the single solemn clang of the death bell that announced the executions.

One woman bore a placard: "Murder cannot be abolished by murder."

Mrs. Thompson who made vain appeals for clemency to the last, was the first woman executed in England in 15 years.

Only officials were permitted to witness the hangings. High board fences had been erected about the scaffolds at the north of London jails and the public saw nothing of the executions nor of the prisoners as they were taken from their cells.

Official notices of the executions were posted on the gates, that at Pentonville saying that Bywaters had been executed, being put up at 9:25 a. m., Mrs. Thompson's notice at 9:33.

The curious-crowds outside drifted away without demonstration.

Mrs. Thompson and Bywaters were found guilty after one of the most dramatic murder trials in English court history of conspiring against the former's husband and effecting his death by stabbing on October 4. Bywaters admitted the stabbing, claiming self-defense. The couple said they had planned to elope together later on and love letters passed between them were produced in which they discussed ways and means of poisoning Percy Thompson.

The prosecution held and the jury found that Mrs. Thompson incited Bywaters to stab her husband, but both the youth and the woman protested violently this was not so.

To Make Drunken Drivers Liable to Prison Terms

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 9.—Drunken automobile drivers would be liable to a prison sentence of one year and a fine of $50 under a bill before the legislature sponsored by Senator English of Indianapolis. The measure would make the penalty one to five years imprisonment for second offense and would make possible $500 fine and a two year sentence if a driver of an automobile runs away after an accident and is apprehended.

Suspicion Again Falls on Dorothy

So! our dreadful secret was not confined to ourselves as we had supposed, but was shared, or at least suspected, by our host.

Thankful that it was I, rather than Sinclair, who was called upon to meet and sustain this shock, I answered with calmness, I could: "Yes; Sinclair mentioned the matter to me. Indeed, if you have any curiosity on the subject, I think I can enlighten you as fully as he can."

Mr. Armstrong drew me into his private room.

"I find myself in a very uncomfortable position," he began. "A strange and quite unaccountable change has shown itself in the appearance of Mrs. Lansing's body during the last few hours; a change which baffles the physicians and raises in their minds very unfortunate conjectures. What I want to know is whether Mr. Sinclair still has in his possession the box which is said to hold a vial of deadly poison; or whether it has passed into any other hand since he showed it to certain ladies in the library."

In Sinclair's interests, if not in my own, I resolved to be as true to our host as our positions demanded, yet, at the same time, to save Gilbertine as much as possible from premature or not final suspicion.

I therefore replied: "That is a question I can answer as well as Sinclair. While he was showing this box, Mrs. Armstrong came into the room and proposed to stroll, which drew all of the ladies from the room and called for his attendance as well. With no thought of the danger involved, he placed the trinket on a high shelf in the cabinet, and went out with the rest. When he came back for it, it was gone."

The usually ruddy aspect of my host's face deepened.

"This is dreadful," was his comment, "entailing I do not know what unfortunate consequences upon this household and on the unhappy girl."

"Girl?" I repeated.

He turned upon me with great gravity. "Mr. Worthington, I am sorry to have to admit it, but something strange, something not easily explainable, took place in this house last night. You know there is a detective in the house. The presents are valuable and I thought best to have a man here to look after them."

I nodded.

"That man tells me," continued Mr. Armstrong, "that just a few minutes previous to the time the whole household was aroused last night, he heard a step in the hall overhead, then the sound of a light foot descending the little staircase in the servants' hall. He lowered the gas, closed his door and listened. The steps went by door again and looked out. A young girl was standing not very far from him in a thin streak of moonlight. She was gazing intently at something in her hand, and that something had a purple gleam to it. He is ready to swear to this. Next moment, frightened by some noise she heard, she fled back and vanished again in the region of the little staircase. It was soon, very soon after this that the shriek came. Now, Mr. Worthington, what am I to do with this knowledge? I can not think that Miss Camerden—"

The ejaculation which escaped me was involuntary.

"Did he say it was Miss Camerden?" I hurriedly inquired. "How should he know Miss Camerden?"

"He described her," was the reply. "Besides, we know that she was circulating in the halls at that time. I declare I have never known a worse business. Let me send for Sinclair; he is more interested than any one else in Gilbertine's relatives; or stay, what if I should send for Miss Camerden herself? She should be able to tell how she came by this box."

I thought Sinclair would like me to answer.

"It is a serious and very perplexing piece of business," said I; "but if you will wait a short time I do not think you will have to trouble Miss Camerden. I am sure that explanations will be given. Give the lady a chance," I stammered.

"She did not come down this morning."

"Naturally not."

"If I could take counsel of my wife! But she is of too nervous a temperament. Do you think I can look for Miss Camerden to explain herself before the doctors return, or before Mrs. Lansing's physician, for whom I have telegraphed, can arrive from New York?"

"I am sure that three hours will not pass before you hear the truth. Leave me to work out the situation. Only keep the gossips from Miss Camerden's good name."

"Every one probably knows by this time that there is some doubt tell as to the cause of Mrs. Lansing's death. You can not keep a suspicion of this nature secret in a house so full of people as this."

I made my way at once to the dining-room. Should I find Miss Lane there? Yes, and the place beside her was unoccupied.

I was on my way to that place when I was struck by the extreme quiet into which the room had fallen. In the hurried glance I cast about the board, not a look met mine in recognition or welcome.

What did it mean? Had they been talking about me? Possibly and in a way, it would seem, that was not altogether flattering to my vanity.

I passed to the seat I have indicated and let my inquiring look settle on Miss Lane. She was staring in imitation of the others straight into her plate, but looked up and acknowledged my courtesy with a faint, almost sympathetic smile.

"How is Miss Murray?" I asked.

"I do not see her here."

"Did you expect to? Poor Gilbertine! This is not the bridal day she expected." Then she added: "I think it was just horrid in the old woman to die the night before the wedding; don't you?"

"Indeed, I do," I emphatically rejoined, "tutoring her in the hope of learning what I wished to know. Does Miss Murray still cherish the expectation of being married today? No one seems to know."

"Nor do I. I haven't seen her since the middle of the night. She didn't come back to her room. They say she is sobbing out her terror and disappointment in some attic corner. Think of that for Gilbertine Murray! But even that is better than—"

The sentence trailed away into an indistinguishable murmur.

I finished my coffee as soon as possible and quitted the room, but not before many had preceded me. The hall was consequently as full as before of a gossiping crowd.

I was on the point of bowing myself through the various groups blocking my way to the library door, when I noticed renewed signs of embarrassment on all the faces turned my way. These marks of disapproval did not seem to be directed so much at myself as at some one behind me. Who could this some one be? Turning quickly, I cast a glance up the staircase before which I stood and saw the figure of a young girl dressed in black hesitating on the landing. This young girl was Dorothy Camerden, and it was against her this feeling of universal constraint had been directed.

100 WAYS To Make Money

By BILLY WINNER

If I Were Job Hunting—

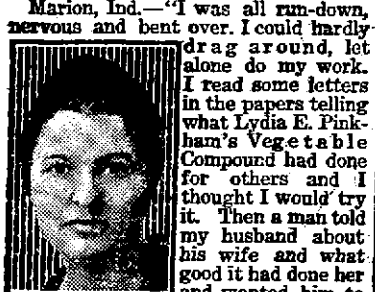

THE first thing I would do if I were job hunting would be to run a few lines in the "Situation Wanted" columns of The Daily Republican Want Ad Section. I would tell Rushville employers what I could do and what kind of work I wanted.

This is the most direct line of fire in bringing down a job that I know of. Other job hunters become job holders this way. I am sure the same plan would work for me.

WOMAN SO ILL COULD NOT WORK

Gained Strength, Weight and Now Doing Own Work, by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Marion, Ind.—"I was all run-down, nervous and bent over. I could hardly drag around, let alone do my work. I read some letters in the papers telling what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound had done for others and I thought I would try it. Then a man told my husband and what good it had done her and wanted him to have me try it. I took one bottle and could see what it did for me in a week's time, and when I had taken three bottles I had gained both in strength and weight and was doing my own work. I took it before my last baby was born and it helped me so much. I sure am glad to recommend the Vegetable Compound to any woman who suffers from female ailments, for I know, by experience what it can do. I have used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, also the Liver Pills, too, and think them fine."—Mrs. Wm. Eldridge, 620 E. Grant Street, Marion, Indiana.

A record of nearly fifty years service should convince you of the merit of Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound.
